Charge Effort To Bribe Badger Senator

INQUIRY BODY APPOINTED IN UPPER HOUSE

LaFollette Charges Attempt
Made to Influence Power Bill Legislation

MEASURE IS TABLED

Assembly Refers Governor's Letter to Its Committee on Rules

Madison—(P)—In a communication read to both houses of the legislature today, Gov. Philip LaFollette charged that an attempt had been made to influence by bribery a senator's vote on two public utility bills.

The charge created a sensation in the senate where a resolution was adopted to appoint a committee to investigate. Gov. Henry Huber, the presiding officer, appointed Senators Walter Goodland, Racine; Herman Severson, Iowa; and Eugene Clifford, Juneau, as members of the committee. In the assembly the communication was referred to the committee on rules.

After a hot debate, the senate adopted a motion by Sen. George Blanchard, Edgerton, to table the power district bill which had been made a special order of business before the senate as a committee as a whole today. Sen. Blanchard and other senators voiced the opinion that the senate could not fairly consider any public utility legislation until the charge made by the governor was investigated.

After Gov. Huber read the communication to the senate, Sen. Severson observed that "it has reached a point now where we might just as well find out who the guilty parties are, and furthermore, asked that the senate act on his resolution creating a committee to investigate all phases of lobbying."

Replies to Severson
The senator is assuming that someone is guilty," Sen. Harry Daggett, Milwaukee, retorted. "The communication does not lead us to believe that anyone is guilty. It only says the governor has information which leads to that belief. Only an investigation can prove that."

America Pays Tribute To Memory Of Lincoln On His 122nd Birthday

Springfield, Ill.—(P)—One hundred and twenty-two years ago today a boy was born in the backwoods of Kentucky. No particular importance was attached to his coming, but today, the anniversary of his birth an entire nation paid tribute to the memory of the most famous backwoods rail splitter of them all.

In the schools, memorial halls, and other places throughout the length and breadth of the country, Americans talked again of "Honest Abe" and listened as others extolled the virtues of America's Civil war president. Springfield, focal point for exercises honoring Abraham Lincoln's memory because he lies buried here, heard him described as a world figure who had "taught lessons which mankind, whether east or west, must take to heart."

The speaker was Katsujii Debuchi, the Japanese ambassador, who pleaded last night for a return to the ideals of Abraham Lincoln.

"The nations," said the ambassador, "are now becoming more and more interdependent. We can conceive of few problems, which, though apparently domestic and generally so-called, do not produce direct or indirect effect upon all nations. In such a world society no nation, however powerful, however self-sufficient, can be independent of other nations and indifferent to their weal or woe. Today Lincoln's idealism cries for rescue as it did when Lincoln saw in America a house divided against itself. In saying this I do not refer to any specific country—rather I have in mind all countries in the world.

"Happily for mankind a new era is drawing. From behind the clouds of suspicion, fear, and rivalry, the light of international cooperation and humanitarianism is gradually emerging."

Governor W. M. Brucker of Michigan, speaking before the Midway Luncheon club, read in public for the first time the letter from an eleven-year-old New York girl which influenced the emancipator to grow a beard. The letter, written by Grace Bedell of Westfield, N. Y., follows in part:

"Westfield, Chautauque-co, New York.

"October 15, 1860.

"Hon. Abraham Lincoln. Dear Sir: My father has just come home from the fair and brought home a picture. I am a little girl only 11 years old, but want you should be

RELIEF BILL IS DEFENDED BY ROBINSON

Democratic Leader Says Congress Is Inefficient
if It Fails to Act

Washington—(P)—Secretary Hyde today informed the senate there is no prohibition in the drought relief compromise against using the loans for the purchase of food and clothing by farmers "if necessary to effect the purpose of crop production and agricultural rehabilitation."

The agriculture secretary's telegram from Louisville was in response to the Borah resolution asking his interpretation of the $20,000,000 drought loan fund compromise, nearing a vote in the senate.

Washington—(P)—Replying to Democratic attacks on the drought relief compromise, Senator Robinson—the Democratic leader—told the senate today the charge of "inefficiency" could be laid at the door of congress if it failed to pass this remedial measure.

The Arkansas has defended the compromise agreement for the past two days against repeated attacks from among his party adherents in the senate. The support of himself and his colleague—Caraway—has been accorded the $20,000,000 loan agreement since it was formulated. His latest remarks came while the senate waited a reply from Secretary Hyde on the question it put to him last night as to his interpretation of the compromise especially whether funds to be made available under it could be loaned for food and clothing purchases by needy farmers.

Reckled by Senators Wheeler of Montana, and Glass of Virginia, from the Democratic side, Robinson rushed to a defense of the substitute for the $25,000,000 Red Cross appropriation originally sponsored by him and voted by the senate coalition.

House Debates Fund Bill
The house put finishing touches on the last of its regular appropriation bills—the $344,000,000 for the navy.

The senate was listening for the statement of Secretary Hyde as to whether the $20,000,000 put forward as a compromise could be loaned to buy food. The agriculture secretary said on his arrival in Louisville he thought his interpretation should be made public in Washington.

His statement may decide whether an extra session will be held, although Senator Phipps, Republican, Colorado, said after a call at the White House that he felt all necessary legislation would be out of the way by March 4.

Among senate committees, hearings on postoffice leases and Bishop James Cannon's activities had subsided temporarily but the inquiry into the oil shale situation in the west resumed before the senate public lands committee. Secretary Wilbur denied charges by Ralph S. Keller, former field agent of the general land office of reclamation.

Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, proposed still another investigation in asking an inquiry into the cement industry.

The house ways and means committee narrowed veterans relief proposals to plans to increase the loan value of adjusted certificates and recessed without action. A vote was expected, however, before the day was over.

The foreign affairs committee approved the senate bill for a $50,000 appropriation for entertainment of French veterans of the World war on their visit here during the George Washington bicentennial celebration.

The house irrigation committee approved a senate bill to add $5,000,000 to the reclamation fund.

BULLETIN

Washington—(P)—A new veterans proposal, described by minority leader Garner as an "administration suggestion" to lend 40 per cent on the face value of certificates was put before the house ways and means committee today.

BILLION DOLLAR BILL SENT TO CONFERENCE

Independent Offices Measure Includes Veterans Bureau Appropriation

Washington—(P)—The billion dollar bill making appropriations for independent offices of the government, including the veterans bureau, for the next fiscal year was sent to conference with the senate today by the house.

The bill carries a senate amendment to stop payment of disability compensation to emergency retired officers drawing salaries of more than $2,000 annually from the government.

This amendment was assailed on the floor by Representative Simmons, Republican, Nebraska, as "discriminatory."

It was opposed to that act and voted to sustain President Coolidge's veto," Simmons said, "but this senate amendment discriminates against the government service as opposed to the man in private service."

Simmons said the amendment also discriminates between groups of service men in the government service by drawing an arbitrary line at $2,000.

"I think the veterans bureau should investigate the administration of this law," he concluded.

BELIEVE TWO ROBBERS WOUNDED DURING FIGHT

Milwaukee—(P)—Two of three men who attempted to burglarize "the Schoolhouse," a roadhouse on the north side of the city, were believed to have been wounded by Phil Gahler, 55, a caretaker, in an exchange of shots early today.

Gahler told Sheriff Al Benson that he wounded one man, presumably in the arm, when he attempted to crawl through a window into the roadhouse. He said he wounded another man who was standing near a parked automobile while a third was believed to have escaped unscathed.

The caretaker said one of the men fired a shot through the window at him. The trio was said to have fled north on the Port Washington road.

STORM HITS SHIPPING NEAR BRITISH COAST

London—(P)—Shipping in the English channel, the Irish coast and in the Bay of Biscay was badly buffeted by a fierce gale which rose suddenly yesterday and continued to blow all day today with little diminished force.

One steamer, reported in distress tonight, was the British freighter Swiftway, of 3,217 tons, which left Las Palmas, Canary island, Feb. 1, for Liverpool, Ireland. Her steering gear was carried away and she was drifting helplessly in the vicinity of southwest Ireland. Two tugboats, left Cobh (Queenstown) to assist her.

High seas raged in the channel and drove all sorts of craft to shelter in various ports.

FASCISTS' WALKOUT DOESN'T AID JOBLESS

Berlin—(P)—Germany's unemployed will not profit immediately from the fact that the National Socialists (Fascists) walked out of the Reichstag. It was revealed when today's session opened. In response to queries as to what sums were available for distribution among the unemployed in pursuance of the Fascist announcement that their Reichstag pay could be given the jobless, President Hindenburg "disfranchised" by all the Nationalist deputies drawn their pay Feb. 1 for the entire month so I can only reply not a single mark—in the language of the people, not a red cent."

ADAMS AND LONGWORTH DISCUSS NAVAL PLANS

Washington—(P)—Secretary Adams today conferred with Speaker Longworth on the navy's construction and modernization programs pending in the house.

As the navy department bill went into the conference, he said he was "very hopeful" for passage of the battleship modernization bill calling for an outlay of $50,000,000 and for the $14,000,000 construction program. Action has been delayed by house leaders to permit disposal of appropriation measures.

The senate has approved the modernization program.

Mail Holdup Nets Naught To Robbers

Trio Carries Off Three Pouches of Mutilated Currency at Capital

Washington—(P)—A daring hold-up of a mail truck carrying registered pouches in the Union station here early this morning was announced by postal officials today as netting the robbers nothing but mutilated currency.

Treasury officials called the loot "gold brick"—saying it was made up of only parts of bills which once had a value of $807,000.

The stolen sacks, after a mail clerk had been beaten with lead pipe, contained only old bills cut in half for shipment to the treasury department.

Police and government operatives were at work in many portions of the capital and watching its outskirts in an attempt to apprehend the holdup men.

The treasury department said the other halves of the mutilated bills had been received here in a previous mail shipment.

The robbery occurred between 2 and 3 o'clock a. m. in the Union station concourse.

Peter Johnson, in charge of 23 sacks of registered mail being shipped from the Federal Reserve bank in New York to the treasury, was the mail clerk bludgeoned by the robbers.

Two unmasked men, carrying lengths of lead pipe in a satchel, attacked the clerk, who was wheeling the 23 mail sacks from the New York train to the adjoining postoffice building.

They beat Johnson, snatched three pouches and ran from the concourse to a taxi stand under the station room where a powerful automobile driven by a confederate picked them up and dashed off.

Police patrolling in automobiles released one suspect after Johnson had failed to identify him.

A physician's examination of Johnson failed to show him badly bruised.

HITS INTERVENTION IN BUILDING INDUSTRY

Kenosha—(P)—Government intervention in the building construction industry was criticized today by Oscar W. Rosenthal, Chicago, in an address before the Master Builders association of Wisconsin in convention here.

Rosenthal said low government costs prevented equal competition with private construction concerns. He charged the rights of the private business man were being invaded.

An optimistic note was injected in the discussion by Loren W. Burch, Madison, president of the association, who told the delegates the building industry will be the biggest factor to minimize future depressions.

The convention will close tomorrow with the election of officers and selection of the 1932 convention city, bids for which have been made by La Crosse and Green Bay.

FOOLPROOF PLANE MEETS SUCCESSFUL TEST IN NEW YORK

New York—(P)—A foolproof airplane which its inventor claims will neither stall, spin nor dive and will land itself is the latest contribution to safety in the air.

While more than a hundred aeronautical experts and financiers watched, the plane was successfully tested at Glend II. Curtis airport yesterday. Piloted by Henry White, it made half a dozen short flights and came to a near-perfect landing each time with the pilot's hands high above his head.

The designer is A. A. Merrill of White Plains, N. Y. In charge of aeronautical research of California Institute of Technology, and a contemporary of Wright brothers, Octave Chanute and Langley. He has been working on the plane since 1913 and at one time was forced to mortgage his life insurance to continue.

Movable wings which can be adjusted over an arc of 14 degrees are the secret of the plane's stability. In flight, these restricted flapping surfaces prevent a pilot from unwittingly going into a stall or a dive. In landing, they automatically level off at the proper distance from the ground and assume the proper gliding angle.

The pilot controls the wings from the cockpit by a crank and push-rod mechanism which is calibrated arbitrarily and rotates from zero, in respect to the fuselage, to an angle of incidence of 14 degrees. In taking off, he sets them at an angle that will preserve his trim. When landing, he cranks them to the maximum point, locks the crank and allows the plane to drift downward.

"It is not so much what it will do," Mr. Merrill said, "as what it will not do that is important. It is definitely a plane to fly and not to stunt because you cannot stunt it."

TWO ADDRESSES MAKE HISTORY FOR HIS CHURCH

First Message Is One of Peace for All Peoples on Earth

PONTIFF LAUDS RADIO
"We Shall Use it to Spread Faith and the Church," He States

Vatican City—(P)—Pope Pius XI, broadcasting twice within an hour and a half today, sent the voice of the Vatican around the world for the first time in the history of the Catholic church.

From the new Vatican City radio station he spoke to his congregation and his prelates in all parts of the world. Half an hour later at the Pontifical Academy of Science, he spoke again. Both addresses were carried across the seas, the first in Latin and the second in Italian.

Giuseppe Marconi, builder of the new station and long time friend of the pontiff, introduced him on both occasions. A throng of invited guests and church dignitaries crowded the Vatican grounds as the pontiff entered the radio station for the first speech. But only a few privileged persons were in the transmitting room as he talked.

After the inauguration of the station he was driven to the academy in his red automobile and seated in a gilded damask covered throne.

He presented Senator Marconi a diploma of membership in the academy and spoke briefly, thanking the inventor for his service.

It was 9:52 o'clock (Appleton time) when the Pope began speaking.

No longer a prisoner of the Vatican, this most modern of all popes sent his living voice to the common Catholics and to the members of other faiths. His was a message of peace and union.

Senator Marconi, introducing the pontiff, spoke briefly before the address for which men and women were listening in far distant cities of the world.

"It is my great honor," he said, speaking into the microphone, "to announce that within a few moments His Holiness Pius XI will inaugurate the radio station of the state of Vatican City."

"This is the first time in history that the living voice of the pope will have been heard simultaneously in all parts of the globe."

Turning to the pope he said: "Holy Father, I consign to your holiness the work entrusted to me. Be pleased, I pray you, to let your voice be heard across the world."

The pope spoke in a clear voice, without hesitation, although he was without the inspiration of the usual responsive audience to listen to his utterances.

He threw all his vigorous personality into the talk and the half dozen privileged persons with him in the little room saw him lift his right arm occasionally and bring his hand down sharply on his right knee to emphasize his words.

He spoke in Latin but he seemed eager to press home his points even to those listeners who did not understand the ancient tongue.

Text of Address
The text of the pope's speech at the inauguration of the Vatican city radio station follows:

"To all creation:
"We believe through the high design of God, successors of the Prince of the Apostles of Him that in whose doctrine and preaching destined through Divine command for all peoples and for every creature and being able for the first time to avail ourselves of Marconi's admirable invention here, we speak first to all things and to all men, speaking to them here and as follows with the words themselves of Holy Scripture:

"Hear, oh heavens, that which I shall say, and listen, oh earth, to the words of my mouth.

"Listen all people, lend your ear to all who inhabit the globe, reaching toward the same end, the rich and the poor, the high, the islands, and listen, oh distant peoples."

"To God—and let this be our first word, glory to God on high and peace on earth to men of good will.

"Glory to God Who gives in our days such power to men of making their words arrive even to the confines of the earth; and peace on earth where we are representatives of that divine Jesus, the Redeemer. Whence coming, announced peace, the peace in the fur and peace to the near, pacifying in the blood of the cross both the things that are on earth as well as those in the skies.

"To Catholics—in speaking, then, to men, the apostle commands us to do good to all but especially to the servants of the faith. We must therefore address our first words to them, to all those who, making part of the family and fold of the Lord which is the Catholic church, call us with the sweet name of father. To father and to sons we speak, to the sheep and to the lambs, to all those whom the shepherd and Sa-

Testify Bishop Transferred Campaign Funds To Own Account

CANNON MOVES TO FILE REPLY WITH PROBERS

No. Date Set for Further Hearings by Senate Funds Committee

Washington—(AP)—After eliciting from witnesses that some of the funds deposited to the credit of the Virginia anti-Smith committee, in 1928, were transferred to the personal account of Bishop James Cannon, the senate campaign funds committee today remained undecided whether further hearings would be held.

The Nye group, which is investigating political activities of the Southern Methodist prohibition leader, yesterday questioned a number of bankers. It was acting upon complaints filed by Representative Tamm, Republican, Massachusetts, that Bishop Cannon violated the corrupt practices act through failure to report expenditures of funds contributed to the campaign against the Democratic presidential nominee.

The bishop came to the hearing in a wheelchair, still crippled by arthritis from which he has been suffering for some time. At the hearing, a letter from him was read asking permission to file, as soon as his health allowed, a sworn statement to prove no "criminal or dishonorable act" had been committed. Chairman Nye granted the request. Perry Seay, vice president of the American Bank and Trust company, Richmond, Va., told Nye that Cannon's anti-Smith committee opened an account July 24, 1928, with $88,708. On Feb. 11, 1929, three checks were deposited totaling $18,605. One was for $17,264. The same day this exact amount was transferred to Bishop Cannon's personal account. It was not traced further nor was its source disclosed.

William Tyler Page, clerk of the house, testified that the report of the Cannon campaign committee was not filed, as required by law on Jan. 1, but was presented Feb. 15, 1929. However, he pointed out the physical impossibility of making a cumulative report of the year's transactions on the first day of the year, a legal holiday.

Nature of Complaint
Tinkham's complaint charged specifically that Cannon received $65,300 from E. C. Jamison of New York, for the campaign, but accounted for only $17,000 in reporting to the clerk of the house. Cannon previously had advanced the contention that the law did not require accounting of the full amount.

Another transaction which held the attention of the committee was the transfer first from one bank to another and then to a personal account in the latter bank of an $8,000 check received by the bishop. The check was identified by Nye as bearing the number of one which records of last year's senate lobby committee showed came from Jamison.

Correspondence bearing upon several transactions was read into the committee room, and Nye said photostatic copies would be made of letters and deposit slips. He assured the bishop, however, that correspondence bearing on private bank dealings would be zealously guarded and not "daunted publicly."

Cannon's letter to the committee had asserted Tinkham "must expect to receive from these bank records making a public record of all my private business that I have either violated the Federal Corrupt Practices act by a false statement of campaign expenditures, or by fraudulent conversion to private uses of funds contributed for use in the 1928 campaign."

He followed this up with the offer of a statement to prove the propriety of the transactions.

Tells How He And Three Comrades Bore Wounded Lincoln Out Of Theatre

Pittsburgh—(AP)—A gray-haired little man, past 83, who has spent most of his life in the coal mines of western Pennsylvania, sat back in his rocker today and told about that Good Friday night, April 24, 1865, when he and three comrades carried the wounded Abraham Lincoln from the Ford theatre in Washington.

Jacob J. Soles, then a member of Thompson's Light artillery, and three other young soldiers, were among the first to reach the side of the fallen president after John Wilkes Booth had fired the fatal shot. Tenderly they carried the president through the turmoil to the Peterson home across the street.

Soles' three comrades of that night—J. Griffiths, John Corey, and William Sample—all enlisted from the Pittsburgh district, since have passed on.

The four were part of a company sent to Fort Barry to protect Washington in 1864. They had permission to attend the theatre the night Lincoln was assassinated.

"We four were up in the balcony, about 15 feet from where President Lincoln was shot," Soles said. "I don't know just what time it happened, but the play had gone on for some time."

"We didn't know at first when we heard the pistol going off that it was in the president's box, but they cried for help and we heard a woman crying and we four broke forward and rushed to the box. Then we picked up Mr. Lincoln and carried him to a little building across the street."

KENTUCKY PAYS TRIBUTE
Louisville, Ky.—(AP)—Kentucky, cradle of Abraham Lincoln, observed the 122nd anniversary of his birth today with patriotic programs in practically every city and hamlet.

The simplicity of the program at Hodgenville, birthplace of Lincoln, contrasted with the elaborateness of the one arranged in Louisville where men prominent in state and national life were to eulogize the emancipator.

There was no special observance at the cabin, near Hodgenville, where Lincoln was born, but the Ladies Lincoln league of Hodgenville prepared a program for this evening in the town library. The cabin, enclosed in a granite memorial hall on the Lincoln farm, was an attraction during the day for hundreds of tourists.

Tourists also found an attraction at Harrodsburg in the Lincoln marriage cabin. It was in this cabin in the marriage of Nancy Hanks and Thomas Lincoln took place.

The cabin is being enclosed in a temple which will be dedicated next June 12, the 125th anniversary of the marriage of Lincoln's parents.

Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, will be the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Lincoln Protective club at Louisville to night. Governor Flem D. Sampson also will speak.

"INVEIGLED" INTO VOTE
Viroqua—(AP)—Ellis Ellefson, 92, Viroqua's oldest citizen, today had a clear conscience as he recalled how he was "inveigled" into casting his first vote for a backwoods politician, Abraham Lincoln.

He came to America shortly before the Civil war and settled at Stoughton, Wis. His employer, a justice of the peace, was a Lincoln partisan.

"Shortly before the election of Lincoln," Ellefson said, "my employer told me the benefits resulting from American citizenship. In fact, he wanted me to become a citizen so

ONLY "ODD JOBS" ARE AVAILABLE FOR LOCAL UNEMPLOYED

The only jobs available for laborers in Appleton at the present time are "odd jobs," such as moving furniture, cleaning out basements and carrying out ashes according to the employment department of the Y. M. C. A. There are numerous selling jobs open, it is said, but only one man in 50 applying at the association is interested in selling.

A list of about 25 men seeking work is kept at the Y. M. C. A., according to W. D. Farnum, employment secretary. More men have asked for work during the winter but many are from out of town and others have no telephone or cannot be reached by phone and their names are not kept.

Requests for work range from three to 10 daily, Mr. Farnum said. Men whose applications have been on file longest are called whenever odd jobs are offered.

badly that he promised to pay all costs of my naturalization—that was, if I'd vote for Lincoln. I became a citizen and voted for the man from Illinois. But for months afterwards, my conscience bothered me because I voted for a man about whom I knew nothing. I thought I might have voted for someone who was not honest and upright. Four years later, I was proud to vote for him a second time."

HUNT ATTACKS ATTITUDE OF PHONE FIRMS

Says Their Position Bars Farmers of Pierce-co from Service

Madison—(AP)—The obstinate attitude of the telephone company, in regard to rates, prohibits the farmers of Pierce-co from enjoying the use of telephones, Sen. Walter Hunt, River Falls, charged before the senate committee on corporations and taxation here yesterday. Sen. Hunt appeared to speak in favor of his bill to permit cooperative farm organizations to own and operate telephone companies in competition with existing private concerns.

"I can't see why there is all this opposition to letting the farmers use telephones," Sen. Hunt said. "The companies won't give the farmers service at a fair rate and won't let them serve themselves. In times like these, telephone concerns should mellow up on rates. The reaction to exorbitant rates is coming."

Walter J. Gallon, Antigo, representing the Wisconsin Telephone association, opposed the bill on the ground that telephone competition was "foul and filthy."

"If we get competition, all I can say is God help us," he said. "This is a vicious, vicious bill."

A. J. Whitcomb of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Co.; H. E. Horel, Marshfield; Charles Blair, Boscobel; W. T. Sparks, Lodi; P. D. Smart, Wisconsin Rapids, and P. J. Wierick, were others who opposed the measure.

Sen. Herman Severson's bill to repeal the reciprocity feature of the inheritance law was scored by Fred Clausen, Horicon manufacturer, and Assemblyman Oscar Schmieg, Appleton. They pointed out that 37 states now have this feature in inheritance laws. It permits only one state to tax intangible property of decedents, regardless of the number of states in which the property may be held.

"I don't know why the legislature should make it harder for a man to live in Wisconsin and that is what this bill does," Mr. Clausen told the committee.

POLICE FIND NO TRACE OF DIAMOND THIEVES

No trace has been found by police up to noon today of the two men who walked out of the Pitz and Treiber jewelry store, Insurance bldg, at noon yesterday with two rings, one valued at $60 and the other at $100. Sergeant Mathew McGinnis is working on the case. The two men asked to look at diamond rings. While the clerk turned his back they pocketed two of the rings and fled when they were accused of having taken them. They disappeared before the clerk could see which way they went.

WAR VETS HERE
DO NOT AGREE ON CASH PAYMENTS

Some Want Cash Immediately, While Others Prefer to Wait Until Later

Members of Oney Johnston post, American legion, differ in opinions regarding service certificate plan for World war veterans. While a large number are in favor of immediate payment, others said they would like to wait until the certificates mature in 1945. A few expressed no opinions, claiming they were not well enough informed with the proposal which now lies before the U. S. legislature.

Following are a few opinions given by leading members of the local post:

Erik Madisen—"Inasmuch as many veterans range in age from 30 to 40 years of age, and are beginning to raise families, I am heartily in favor of immediate payment. Many veterans are buying homes or farms on land contracts, and payment at the present time would be to their advantage."

Peter Goert—"Wait until 1945, by all means. Most veterans are now in the prime of life, ranging in age from 30 to 45 years, and if they can't earn a living now what will they do 15 years from now? They would be wise in waiting for payment until such time when it will serve as an emergency fund."

James Ballet—"Collect now and save the government money. Many veterans could make very good use of the money right now when all this talk about economic depression is going on. Immediate payment would probably help alleviate the economic situation."

John Hantschel—"I have not had the opportunity to inform myself of all the provisions of the proposal. I concur, however, in the action of the National executive committee of the American legion endorsing the principal of present payments of cash on the certificates. I have no doubt the legion leaders will reach a satisfactory agreement with the Congressional leaders."

Several legnaires expressed the opinion that many veterans are not familiar with the proposition, and that as many misunderstand the issue.

Plan Explained
A thorough explanation of the service certificate plan has been handed down by the United States Chamber of Commerce as follows:

"Following rejection of all proposals for payment of cash bonuses to the veterans congress passed a law in 1924 called the adjusted compensation act which provided that adjusted compensation be allowed to veterans in the form of certificates which are in effect 20-year endowment insurance policies.

"To determine face amounts of certificates credits of $1.25 per day was allowed by each veteran for overseas service and $1 per day for "home" service for each day in excess of 60 days. The amount was augmented in each case by 25 per cent, and the resultant sum was applied as a single net premium in accordance with actuarial principles and with interest computed at 4 per cent.

"Men aged 30 years in 1925 received certificates of a face value of approximately two and one half times the amount of the total of the adjusted service credit after 25 per cent had been added, so that a man whose augmented credit amounted to $500 and 20 years of age at the time of the passage of the bill received a 'policy' with a face value of $1,358. The present-day reserve value of such a certificate is approximately $345 and the maximum loan value is slightly more than $300.

"Full face value of the 'policy' is payable in cash at maturity or upon death of the holder. Loans on the policy are limited to 90 per cent of the reserve value and the reserve value is the full reserve required by actuarial principles based on an annual level net premium for 20 years and computed on the basis of interest at 4 per cent.

"All but a few hundred thousand of veterans applied for their certificates with the result that approximately 3,400,000 such certificates are outstanding with a face value of approximately $3,425,000,000, the average face value of approximately $3,425,000,000, the average face value of certificates outstanding being $1,008. About $100,000,000 has been paid out in death claims on approximately 100,000 such certificates.

"To meet the annual premiums on the policies the law provides for annual appropriation until 1945; reserves accumulated under the law now approximate $770,000,000 which is invested in government securities.

Payment of the full face value of the certificates would cost the U. S. government approximately $3,400,000,000; payment of the present day of cash surrender values of the certificates would cost approximately $1,700,000,000 to $2,100,000,000, according to the basis of the computation.

"Computation of the cash surrender values as provided under the Garner bill, one of those under consideration in the senate would be in excess of the highest amount named above, exceeding by something like $375,000,000, the present day cash surrender values as computed on an insurance basis."

CAR REGISTRATIONS
DECLINE IN CITY,
COUNTY LAST MONTH

Fewer Machines Registered in State Too, Report Indicates

There were nine fewer automobiles registered from Appleton in January than in the same month in 1930, according to a report from Theodore Damann, secretary of state. In January 1931, there were 39 new cars registered, while in the same month last year there were 48 cars registered. There were exactly the same number of passenger cars registered each month, 35, but there were 13 commercial cars registered last January, against only four last month.

A proportionate decrease was noted in figures for the county and the state. In January there were 66 new cars registered in the county as against 97 in the same month in 1930. In the entire state last month there were 3,558 new cars registered as compared with 5,392 registered in January, 1930.

Following is a list of cities of about the same size as Appleton with the first figure showing the number of cars registered in January, 1930, and the second the number registered in January, 1931:

Appleton, 48, 39; Fond du Lac, 64, 51; Green Bay, 88, 68; Manitowish, 43, 40; Marinette, 18, 11; Menasha, 18, 11; Neenah, 20, 9; Oshkosh, 60, 56; and Sheboygan, 69, 45.

Wilbur Denies Interior Department Favored Large Oil Companies

KELLEY CHARGE IS NOT TRUE, HE TESTIFIES

Secretary Tells Committee He Was Not Influenced in Oil Shale Claims

Washington — (AP)—Secretary Wilbur told the senate public lands committee today that "any statement that either I or the department has been influenced by pressure or anything else in connection with oil shale claims is a deliberate falsehood."

Taking the stand in answer to published charges against the department by Ralph S. Kelley, former field agent of the general land office, Secretary Wilbur said Kelley had "sold out to outsiders statements he should have made to the department."

He said the New York World has admitted paying Kelley $12,000 for his charges.

The committee investigation into Kelley's charges that the interior department has favored large oil companies in disposing of Colorado oil shale lands had shifted to the Krumpholtz case, in which a decision of the department was overruled by the supreme court.

Finney Explains
Solicitor Finney of the interior department said that when in 1927 he held the claim of Emil Krumpholtz had been forfeited through failure to perform the annual required assessment work "there was quite a furor about it out in Colorado." Previously he had testified at length on the Freeman-Summers case.

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, the only member of the committee at the hearing, said when the supreme court ruled the department's decision was wrong, "the point was made that the government had not challenged until after $500 of work had been done," on the claim.

The senator cited that the court held this had satisfied the legal requirement of $100 assessment work annually. The department had contended the work could not be allowed to lapse for several years and then be made up.

Shows Correspondence
Finney produced correspondence intended to show that hearings in cases in which the Krumpholtz issue was involved had been held by Secretary Work at the request of Senator Waterman, Republican, Colorado, and others until after its final decision by the department. As in the previous hearings, Kelley sat at the hearings but took no part.

Secretary Wilbur said he had made every effort to give Kelley full opportunity to prove his charges while the latter was still in the department.

He said letters received from Kelley while he was still in the land office employ at Denver had been "vague, egotistic and full of charges containing hyperbole," but that "in order to be sure" the secretary brought him to Washington and put him in charge of the oil shale department of the land office here.

Wilbur said his first indication he had that Kelley had left was a call from a press association asking "whether I knew Kelley had resigned and made charges."

Records Open, Claim
"Everything in my office," Wilbur said, "is open to examination by Kelley, who never availed himself of the opportunity."

"Expressing confidence in all persons attached to the department," the secretary said "Kelley is the only one who has sold out to outsiders statements he should have made to the department."

He said Kelley had declined to take his charges to the department of justice, selling them to a newspaper instead.

The latter listened unmoved to the secretary's statement. Previously Senator Walsh had asked him whether he cared to question Solicitor Finney. Kelley declined but said he would like to make a statement. Senator Walsh promised him an opportunity at the next hearing.

WOMEN DEBATERS SCHEDULE 3 MEETS

Lawrence Squad to Engage in Contests With Big Ten Schools

The Lawrence college women's debate squad has scheduled debates with three Big Ten schools, according to the itinerary made public this week by Rexford Mitchell, women's debate coach. On Feb. 15 Lawrence affirmative team will debate the question of compulsory automobile insurance with the University of Wisconsin negative team before the Beaver Dam high school and on Feb. 18 will meet the University of Iowa women's debate squad in a contest at Iowa City, Ia. On Feb. 20 the affirmative team will meet the negative squad of Northwestern University in Evanston and on Feb. 21 will hold a second meet with the University of Wisconsin before a combined meeting of the Menasha Kiwanis and Rotary clubs.

Lawrence opens her midwest competition in a debate against Hamline college during the third week in March. The question for debate is Compulsory Unemployment Insurance, the same question the men's team is working on. On March 28 Carleton college will send a team to Appleton and March 30 a return debate will be held at Northfield, Minn.

The affirmative and negative teams will be chosen later from the Lawrence squad are Lois Klehn, Ardis Elston, Faby Malvor, Emogene Perschbach, Maxine Fraser, Lucille Schwartz, Dorothy Edwards, Elizabeth Gosnell, Alice Deagle, Alice Walther and Madelyn Johnson.

CALM AS SHE LOSES $1,600 BUT FAINTS WHEN IT'S RETURNED

Washington — (AP)—Mrs. Edith Brenner can stand adversity with fortitude, but some things are just too much. She lost a pocketbook containing $1,600 in jewels and cash. Composedly she summoned a policeman, and calmly she proceeded to tell him all about it. A young man walked up:

"Your pocketbook, Miss."

Diamonds and cash were inside. Mrs. Brenner fainted dead away in the arms of Detective Sergeant Barrett.

Hangs Self To Tree In Back Yard

Mrs. Hulda Pingel, 63, 402 S. Walter-ave., took her life early this morning by hanging herself from a tree in the back yard of her home. She was found about 6 o'clock by her daughter, Lillian, who was searching for her mother's health was said to be in poor health. She was found at 2 o'clock this morning. She arose sometime after that and went outside. She stood on a bench, fastened the rope to a limb of the tree, and then pushed the bench over.

Mrs. Pingel, a resident of Appleton for the past 30 years, was a member of St. Paul Lutheran church. She served as treasurer of the Ladies Aid for the past 25 years. Survivors are the widow, six daughters, Mrs. August Teichelt, Mrs. Herbert Kapp, and Lillian, Appleton, and Mrs. Edward Anholer and Mrs. John Gross, San Diego, Calif.; three sons, John of Lake View, Ore., Rudolph and Henry, Appleton; one sister, Mrs. Alma Schweitzer, and one brother, Charles Brehme, Chicago; 18 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The body may be viewed at the Wichmann funeral home from Friday noon until the time of the funeral services, at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The Rev. F. M. Brandt will be in charge of the services and burial will be in Riverside cemetery.

JURY FINDS KLINE HAD WOOD CONTRACT

Amount of Damages to Kaukauna Man Will Be Set by Court

A jury in circuit court this morning, after an hour's deliberation, returned a verdict finding that John P. Kline, Kaukauna, had a contract to purchase pulp wood for the Little Rapids Pulp company of Little Rapids. Kline started suit against the pulp company and D. L. Thompson, in which he asked damages of about $6,200. He claimed he purchased stock in the pulp company at the request of Thompson and that in return, the latter made an oral contract under which Kline was to buy wood for the company at a commission of 40 cents per cord. Kline claims he purchased 8,000 cords of wood in 1925 and 1926, and after that the company refused to permit him to make any further purchases.

The question submitted to the jury was whether Kline had a contract with the pulp company. The amount of damages to which Kline is entitled will be settled by Judge Edgar V. Werner, who presided in the case which started yesterday.

The pulp company claimed that Kline had no grounds for suit because the contract was an oral one, and under the law was not binding after a year.

VETERANS SHOOT FOR PLACES ON RIFLE TEAM

Oney Johnston post legionaires who believe they can rate high enough with the rifle to compete as members of a rifle team will meet at Army G. tonight after the amateur fights to fire for places on the local post's team.

The high six men will qualify for positions and their scores will be forwarded to Milwaukee to the state department. The highest team in the state will represent Wisconsin at a national shoot later in the season.

The men will fire 10 shots standing, sitting and prone. The distance will be 50 feet and small bore rifles will be used. Men who want to fire have been asked to get in touch with Les Smith or Clarence O. Datz. Tonight's shoot is open to any legionaire in Appleton.

Programs At Schools Recall Lincoln's Birth

The picture of Honest Abe and his rail-splitting, shovel-writing, book-burning, and his Army buddies, his Gettysburg address, and his White House heartaches will be re-touched in the minds of schoolchildren today and tomorrow in commemoration of Lincoln's birthday to day.

In most of the parochial and public grade schools there will be separate programs in the various classrooms, with the usual run of speeches on the life of Lincoln, the Gettysburg address, and poems and songs about the great emancipator and patriot. Songs. Special attention has been given this week to the study of the life and work of Lincoln in history and English classes.

Classroom programs were given today at First Ward school, and tomorrow morning the fifth and sixth grade pupils will present a special Lincoln program. Fifth graders will give two plays, "The Boy Who Studied" and "The History of Our Various Patriotic Songs." Sixth graders will present a play entitled "Honest Abe," and there will be a reading, "The Autobiography of Lincoln."

The social science classes of Miss Mary Rogers, McKinley Junior high school gave programs on Lincoln during their class periods today. Each class was responsible for its own part of the program.

In Appleton high school the American history and English classes have been studying the life and work of Lincoln as a timely subject. Classes in Roosevelt Junior high school devoted part of the class time today to commemorate the birthday of the statesman. Miss Gladys Alger, English teacher related facts about his life. The history classes discussed various phases in the political life of Lincoln.

EXTRA SESSION PUZZLE STILL TO BE SOLVED

Chances at Present Appear to Be About Fifty-Fifty, Lawrence Thinks

UP TO RADICAL BLOC
Small Number of Senators Could Succeed in Staging Filibuster

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1931 by Post Pub. Co. Washington — (UPA)—Will there be an extra session of congress? This question is being put to the national capital with such worried expressions, coupled with a hope that it will be answered in the negative, that members of congress are beginning to wonder if the legislative branch of the government is really unpopular or whether business is afraid of an imaginary ill which could not possibly come to pass even if there were an extra session.

The business and financial world does not want an extra session because of a fear that it will keep business in an unsettled frame of mind. Proposals to spend three and a half billion dollars one day and arguments next day that only a half billion will be necessary have sent shivers of apprehension up and down the spine of the industrial world and the markets of finance.

Business would always rather have the investigating power of congress dormant instead of active, but the opposition to an extra session this time is based upon a desire to keep the security markets stable. Government operations in finance are so important a factor in the cost of credit and interest rates that only a settled policy can help the financiers to understand how to handle the financing and refinancing transactions of the whole business structure.

Minority for New Term
Seven-eighths of the members of congress are convinced that when the present session ends on March 4 all needed appropriation bills will have been passed and a recess taken till next December. A minority in both houses think it would be a mistake to let congress go home.

For one thing, many members see little trouble for themselves in going back to the constituencies, where the pressure for jobs or relief is so intense as to make them think they would only be urged to do something they could not possibly do during a recession of congress.

For political reasons some of the radicals would like to see an extra session. They would hold the balance of power. But to bring about an extra session this time will not be as easy as in the past. A handful of senators can do it, but will they take the risk? Filibusters ordinarily are not taken too seriously by public opinion.

Ready for Compromise
In ordinary times not much attention is given by the business world to the extra session problem. But with the psychological impression which, rightly or wrongly, has been developed in the last few weeks that "an extra session will hurt business," it is doubtful whether any senator would wish to conduct a filibuster except on a real issue.

And as for real issues the Democratic leaders and the Republicans are ready to bring about a compromise on anything vital so as to avoid an extra session.

With the leaders openly committed to a policy of avoiding an extra session, the chances may be said today to be about even that they will succeed. The final answer on the handful of senators who want an extra session, but as yet nobody can point a finger of blame toward any of them. With night sessions in prospect, the proponents of delay will be forced into the open. Meanwhile, there are about seventeen days and nights left. The house has moved along well and the delay, if any, will come in the senate.

COMPLETE AUDIT OF APPLETON'S BOOKS

The audit of the 1930 city books was completed Wednesday by Willard F. Schmitt, certified public accountant. The audit this year includes an analysis of the more important receipts and expenditures of the year, and throughout the book there are explanatory notes supplementing the usual charts and tables. Copies of the audit report will be mimeographed for each alderman and city official.

Mostly cloudy tonight and Friday; possibly snow colder tonight in northwest; calmer Friday.

General Weather
Low pressure over central Iowa has caused cloudy and unsettled weather over the northern and central portions of the country, with snow or rain reported from the Ohio Valley and from scattered places in the Mississippi valley and western Canada. Temperatures have been during the last 24 hours in the central and eastern portions of the country, but high pressure over central Canada is bringing colder to that section. Cloudy and unsettled, with probably snow, is expected in this section tonight and Friday, with colder Friday.

MOVE POSTAL STATION TO NEW HEADQUARTERS

Postal sub-station No. 1, which is now located at Schlitz Brothers West End drug store, 601 W. College-ave, is to be moved today to the Clement Radio shop, 618 W. College-ave. J. P. Clement will have charge of the station, which probably will be open for business Friday afternoon. Schlitz Brothers decided to release the postal station early in December, but consented to handle the business until a new location could be found. There were several bidders.

Ponder Fate Of Frat Men In Dry Case

Michigan U. Authorities and County Officials Prepare to Take Action

Ann Arbor, Mich. — (UP)—University and county authorities were preparing today to determine what disciplinary action should be taken against 79 University of Michigan students, members of five Greek letter fraternities in whose houses quantities of liquor were seized in a series of surprise raids yesterday.

The committee on student affairs of the university senate has been summoned for a meeting this afternoon to consider the matter, while the students are to appear in justice court at 10 o'clock a. m. tomorrow to learn what formal charges, if any, are to be preferred against them.

County Prosecutor Albert Rapp said last night he had been too busy with a student bootlegging case to give careful thought to the fraternity house raids, but that he believed no more serious charges than disorderly conduct would be preferred.

Prosecutor Rapp said his office was more concerned with apprehending the bootleggers who had furnished the liquor found in the fraternity houses and seized in previous raids than with the campus. Arrest of one alleged bootlegger, Joseph Looney, and a young companion, Shirley O'Toole, precipitated yesterday's raids.

Preliminary action on another campus liquor case was completed yesterday afternoon when Orin Brown, Spencer, Iowa, law student at the university, was bound over to circuit court by Justice Jay Payne on a charge of possessing liquor for sale.

Prosecutor Rapp said Brown, with Alan Thompson, non-student and Robert Custer, student in the school of education, who were arrested at the same time, would be arraigned in circuit court probably Saturday. Thompson and Custer, who are from Marion, Ind., are charged with possessing liquor without the intent to sell clause.

GERMAN FASCISTS CONTINUE ABSENCE

Government Has Things Its Own Way During Reichstag Session

Berlin — (AP)—Continued absence of the Fascists and Nationalists from the Reichstag sessions gave the government, which had only negligible Communist opposition to consider, an easy time of it today.

Three motions of no confidence in Dr. Julius Curtius, foreign minister, tabled previously by the Nationalist, Communist and Farmers parties, were overwhelmingly in favor of the government. The votes were 255 to 87. There were 29 abstentions.

Action on the motions interrupted debate on another motion demanding that Germany seek appointment of an international impartial committee of experts to determine the war guilt. The motion condemned Article 231 in the Treaty of Versailles which lays the entire guilt at Germany's door. There was no indication when the matter would reach a vote.

Considerable interest but little anxiety exists in government circles as to what the Fascist absentees from the Reichstag will do with their time. The threat of a rump parliament at Weimar appeared today to have disappeared with the deputies choosing instead to wage a soapbox campaign in an attempt to gain back some of the prestige they are believed to have lost in the last few weeks.

CHARGE EFFORT TO BRIBE STATE SOLO

The utilities are determined to defeat these bills and have as much as said they would spend a million dollars to do so.

"I resent the charges made by the senator," thundered Sen. Goodland. "Never in the history of the state, as far as I know has a governor ever sent such a communication to the legislature as this."

The charges made by Sen. Hunt, I question the truth of charges that a million dollars would be spent by the utilities.

START PROBE OF ACCIDENT TO A. BODMER

Man With Fractured Skull Was Pushed Before He Fell, Police Learn

Police Chief George T. Prim and District Attorney Stanley A. Staidl this morning were investigating the accident in which Anthony Bodmer, 51, 220 E. Atlantic-st., was seriously injured early Wednesday morning. Bodmer is near death at St. Elizabeth hospital with a fractured skull. The investigation was started yesterday when Chief Prim doubted the stories told by Mrs. Bodmer and Marvin Ellis, 812 E. Atlantic-st. They claimed Mr. Bodmer fell from the back porch of his home. Ellis is a son-in-law of Mrs. Bodmer.

Questioning of Ellis and Mrs. Bodmer revealed that Bodmer was injured during an argument with William Farrington, Greenleaf, according to police. Bodmer slipped and fell when he was pushed by Ellis as the latter was attempting to leave the argument, between the two men and Ed Nienhaus, Greenleaf, had been visiting at the Bodmer home. When they started to leave for Greenleaf the argument with Bodmer started, police were told.

According to Ellis' story to the police he stepped between the two men and gave Bodmer a slight shove. Bodmer's foot slipped on some ice and he fell to the ground, striking his head. Ellis and the other two men carried Bodmer into the house and then the former drove the two Greenleaf men home.

Both Ellis and Mrs. Bodmer told the story of Mr. Bodmer falling from the porch because they wanted to keep Ellis "out of trouble."

No charges have been placed against Ellis, and he is not being held.

INSURANCE FIRM FORMED IN STATE

Company Will Take Care of Excess Losses of Mutual Insurance Companies

Madison — (AP)—Nine Wisconsin mutual insurance companies have organized a reinsurance company to take their excess losses. J. E. Kennedy, "deputy state insurance commissioner," announced yesterday.

The Wisconsin Town Mutual Reinsurance Co., the new company, is to take all losses of member companies from payments of insurance premiums over the amount of losses averaged in the last 10 years plus 25 per cent. These losses, pooled, will be divided among the members each year, Mr. Kennedy said.

Mr. Kennedy said this is "the first important step taken for the protection of communities and mutual insurance companies. The next step is to have the reinsurance company be to handle excess lines of its members."

There are more than 200 mutual insurance companies in the state, and Mr. Kennedy expects the majority to join the reinsurance organization as soon as its benefits become apparent.

Officers, tentatively elected, are E. R. Thomas, Baraboo, president; H. V. Bartlett, Chippewa Falls, vice-president; and Charles T. Taylor, Wautoma, attorney, secretary.

Member companies of the organization are the Aurora Fire Insurance Co., Hull Town Mutual, Inc., Farmers' Mutual Protective Fire Insurance Co., Eagle Point Fire Insurance Co., Calumet County Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Baraboo Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Trempealeau County Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co., of Harmony, and Bayfield Farmers' Mutual Insurance Co.

SNOW, COLD WEATHER PREDICTED FRIDAY

Snow and colder weather is on the menu for Appleton and vicinity Thursday night and Friday, the weatherman says.

Rain or snow with a drop in the mercury has been predicted throughout the middle-west for the next 24 hours. Snow was reported throughout Wisconsin Thursday morning with rain in the southern sections.

Winds are shifting in the east and northeast, a good indication that cold, wet weather will continue. At 6 o'clock Thursday morning the mercury registered 21 degrees above zero, while at noon it registered 33 degrees.

4-H CLUB MAKES PLANS FOR HOME TALENT PLAY

The Happy Hearts 4-H club of the Maple Grove rural school met Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Marcela Ide, route 4, Fremont. Plans for the play, "A Good Girl in the Kitchen," which is to be presented in the near future, were discussed. The date for presentation has not been chosen. Members of the cast are Dorothy Muenster, Ella Stern, Lucille Sievert, Florence Krabbe, Allice Muenster, Marcela Ide and Helen Muenster. Miss Dorothy Sievert, the club leader, will direct the play. Miss Catherine Van Wyk, teacher of the school, was a guest at the meeting. The next meeting is to be held Feb. 24 at the home of Miss Florence Krabbe.

TWO CENT INCREASE PROPOSED IN NEW GASOLINE TAX BILL

Expect Boost to Produce $9,400,000 During Fiscal Year

Madison — (AP)—"The bill provides that the user of the road pay a larger share of the costs of highway improvement in the form of an increase of two cents per gallon in the tax on motor-fuel," Sen. Cashman wrote. "The increase is estimated to produce $9,400,000 in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, of which amount the Wisconsin owners pay $8,150,000 and the out-of-state owners pay $1,250,000."

"The bill further provides that the fee paid for registering each motor-vehicle shall include all personal property tax against such vehicle. The total amount of personal property tax on motor-vehicles now collected is estimated to be $5,500,000 annually. This amount deducted from the increased gas tax paid by Wisconsin owners of $8,150,000 leaves a net increased cost to the Wisconsin user of the highways of but $4,650,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932."

"$18.95 is designed to reduce the tax on general property to the full extent of the net increase in motor-vehicle revenues and at the same time provides a fair distribution of the highway moneys to all classes of highways."

"The most important features of the bill are: first, the cooperative arrangement with the several railroads whereby thousands of our unemployed will be given immediate work on grade crossing eliminations; second, placing the federal aid moneys entirely under the control of the highway commission making it possible to complete the federal projects which is really the main roads of the state; third, to provide the money with which to meet the outstanding bond obligations in those counties that have built their main roads; fourth, to merit the demands of the federal government that the state become responsible for the maintenance of all federal projects and in addition provides that the state pay the full cost of maintaining the entire state trunk system including snow removal."

"Under the provisions of bill 29, the highway commission with the cooperation of the county boards will be able to plan a program of highway improvement for the entire state that can be completed within a given period, with the minimum of inconvenience to the public, and the maximum of economy to the state and counties."

JURY AWARDS MAN DAMAGES OF $2,241

Finds Vandenberg Entitled to Payment for Being Forced to Move

A jury in municipal court last night awarded L. E. Vandenberg damages of $2,241 from the Appleton Lumber and Fuel company. The case went to the jury about 3 o'clock and a verdict was reached about 8:30. Testimony started before Judge Theodore Berg Tuesday. Vandenberg sought $10,000 damages for alleged having been forced to move from a building owned by the fuel company on which he claimed he had an oral lease. He claimed the lease was made with August Knoepfel, former president of the fuel company, before his death. Vandenberg asked for damages for the expenses incurred in moving and for the loss of business and good will as a result of the transfer. He operates a concrete block business. The jury decided he was entitled to $1,441 for the expenses incurred in moving and $800 for the loss of business and good will. A counterclaim of the fuel company, asking $23 for work which it claimed was necessitated by Vandenberg's moving, was denied by the jury.

SEYMOUR BOY SCOUTS APPEAR IN PAGEANT

A pageant, "Knights in Armor," depicting the trend of organized boyhood from the days of Athenian youth throughout the history of the world, was presented by boy scouts of Troop 17, First Methodist church, Seymour, at Old Fellows hall at Seymour Wednesday evening. M. G. Clark, valley scout executive, attended the pageant.

Sixteen scouts took part in the program, most of the youngsters being garbed in costumes of ancient days. They were dressed as English knights, squares, Roman soldiers, Indians, and Spanish warriors.

Following the program a lunch was served by mothers of boy scouts.

EPISCOPAL SCOUTS TO ATTEND DINNER

A banquet in observance of scout anniversary week will be given at All Saints Episcopal church at 6:30 Thursday evening. It was announced this morning by the Rev. Lyle Douglas Uits. Members of the troop and boy scouts will attend the dinner.

CAR STOLEN HERE IS RECOVERED IN ILLINOIS

A Ford sedan, owned by Charles Heuserman, 1109 E. North-st., was recovered at Mendota, Ill., about a week ago where it had been abandoned by the thieves who stole the machine here two weeks ago. The car, which had not been damaged, will be returned to its owner this week.

$203,461 IS SUM SAVED CITY IN WATER WORKS CASE

Interest Amounts to More Than Principal in Suit 20 Years Old

If the city had lost the old water-works case, which recently was decided in its favor in the circuit court of appeals at Chicago, it would have had to pay $203,461.88. This represents $91,914.10, the amount demanded when the suit was started about 20 years ago, and the interest, which totals $111,547.78.

At one time the city offered to settle this case out of court for $25,000, but the plaintiffs refused. Now under the court's recent ruling, they will not receive anything.

Only one more move remains for the receiver of the water works, according to A. C. Bossier, city attorney, and that is to apply to the supreme court of the United States for a writ of certiorari. Recently the court of appeals in Chicago denied the receiver's petition for a rehearing of the case.

Even if the case does go to the supreme court, Mr. Bossier believes, the judgment of the lower court would be affirmed. If the case is to be carried higher a decision to do so must be made in three months, under the law.

ASK COMPENSATION FOR PESHTIGO MAN

Expect Aid Will Be Received for Man Injured by Drinking Impure Water

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington — A former employee of the United States Coast Guard on board the Peshtigo Light Ship, number 77, was discharged for life by drinking impure water dipped from Green Bay, may soon get reparation from the government.

A bill introduced by Rep. George J. Schneider of Appleton in behalf of Edward Christianson of Sturgeon Bay has been favorably reported, is on the calendar of the House of Representatives, and may be reached at Friday's night session.

Christianson, who is now 28 years old, went to work on the Peshtigo light ship as a seaman in April, 1907. He was then in perfect health. After working continually on the boat for a year and a half, his face became covered with a heavy rash and he soon became ill. After an illness of 17 months, he submitted to several surgical operations in an effort to remove and stop the disfigurement of his face, but several doctors report that nothing further can be done. They all concur in the belief that the skin disease and illness was brought on by impure water and poor food received while working on the light-ship.

The Schneider bill will make it possible for Christianson to receive compensation under the regular compensation act, and waives the time limit set in the act for filing applications for compensation. Since all of Christianson's illness did not develop immediately.

COMMITTEE PLANS FOR SPRING STYLE EVENT

Final plans for spring opening to be held here March 12, 13 and 14 by local merchants will be completed at another meeting of the special chamber of commerce committee in the chamber offices at 9:30 Friday morning, according to Kenneth Corbett, chamber secretary. The committee is composed of John Mullen, chairman, H. M. Goldberg, Wayne Jones and Raymond Eichelberger.

BIRTHS

A daughter was born Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Hilary Sainline, 1209 N. Oneida-st., at St. Elizabeth hospital.

A son, Peter Robertson Thom, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Edgar R. Thom, Birmingham, Mich., Wednesday at Harper Hospital, Detroit.

DEATHS

BILLY FOX
Billy, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Fox, former residents of Appleton, died at his home at 1109 S. Jackson-st., Green Bay, Thursday morning after a lingering illness. Survivors are his parents and one brother, Edward. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Green Bay.

Citizens Elated Over Plans For Postoffice

Elation over the increased possibility of a stone structure for Appleton's new postoffice building is expressed by businessmen and officials, especially those who worked for a change from the original plan for a brick structure. With the Tapager Construction company of Alberta Lea, Minn., offering a bid of $167,849 for a stone structure, reports from Washington indicate that there is a good chance of the government authorizing the construction of a stone building.

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., stated this morning that he is happy that the bids for a stone structure for the new postoffice building fall within the federal appropriation. "Stone is far more appropriate for a government building, for one expects a government building to be a little more substantial than an ordinary structure," he said.

He added that he wished it were possible to have a six or seven foot wainscoting in the lobby instead of plaster down to the base board. He explained that the lobby could be kept cleaner if the wainscoting were of marble, as it is easier to clean than plaster.

"The Appleton Chamber of Commerce is highly elated that the cost of constructing the new postoffice building is within the federal appropriation," Harvey Schlitz, president, said.

"The chamber also is glad that the new postoffice building will be of the style of architecture and material that will conform with styles of other local buildings. Judging by plans and specifications submitted by Washington architects the building will be one of which citizens of this city can be justly proud."

FEATURE ART IN ADVERTISING AT COLLEGE DISPLAY

Fifty Proofs of Best Advertising
Used to Illustrate Subject

Art in advertising is the general subject featured in one of the exhibits now on display in the alcoves of the Lawrence college library. Fifty advertising proofs showing some of the best examples of art as used in advertising nationally known products comprise the exhibit. They come to Lawrence after having been shown at the Art Center in New York.

The exhibit is planned to give recognition to the directors of advertising design, typography illustration and all other factors contributing to good physical appearance in advertising. A keen interest in the exhibit is expected to be shown among local advertisers and commercial artists in view of the wide scope of the work represented and typified in the collection of advertising proofs.

The collection aims also to feature the activities of the art director in relation to the development of the completed advertisement. The exhibition aims to remove some of the mystery about the work of the art director and how he functions as a creator of advertising material.

Examples of many advertising media are shown as they have appeared in magazines, newspapers, and in other forms of public display. Sponsors of the exhibit feel that a study of the materials shown will open new sources of pleasure to the average reader whose perusal of advertising has heretofore been made with little attention to the merit of the art used to carry the advertiser's message.

The exhibit will be on display and open to the public through the month of February.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Free Battery Service A Real Business Builder

Local Willard Dealer Explains
Value of Regular Battery
Inspection

It was the writer's privilege yesterday to hold an interesting conversation with Mr. George J. Schwab, manager of the Gibson Tire and Battery Co., local Willard dealer, and to learn much about the way this dealer assures his customers long and carefree service.

"We never make a sale of a battery that is not recorded," declared Mr. Schwab. "Our prime interest does not lie in the sale alone, but in what the customer will be able to realize in service from the newly acquired battery."

"We try to start him off right by seeing that the battery is properly installed in his car, securely fastened in the cradle. We see that terminals are clean, clamps tight and well greased to keep them from corroding. If the cables are faulty or worn we insist on installing new ones. We want to be sure the battery has a fair chance before it leaves our place."

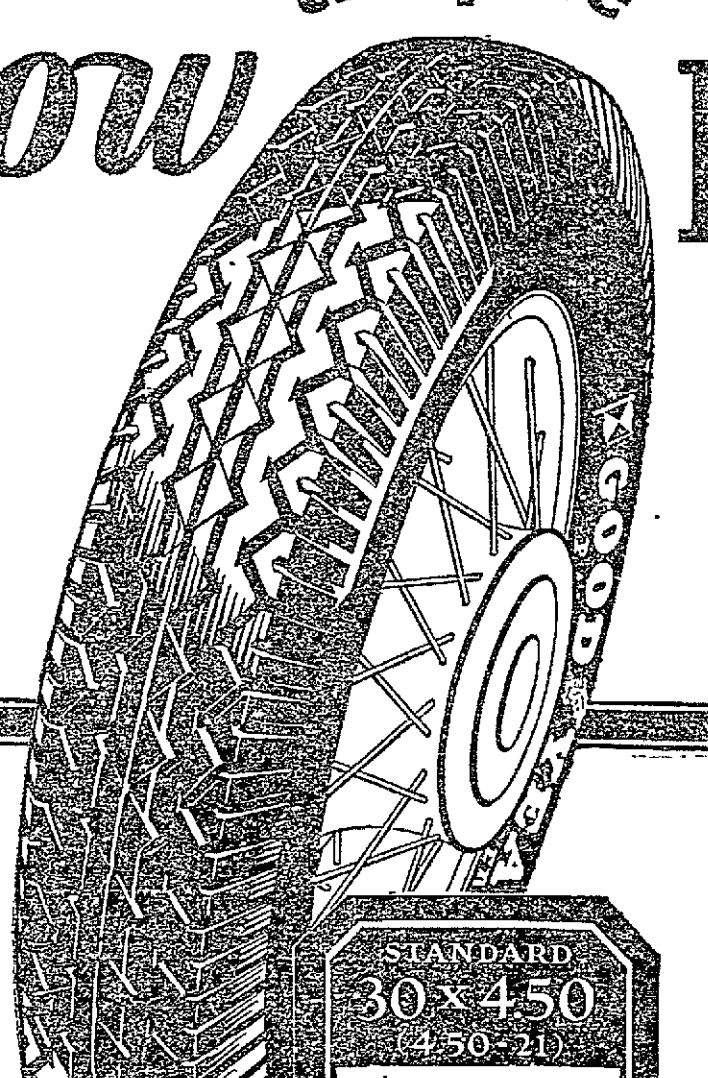

"The owner is invited to avail himself of our free inspection service. We suggest that he drive in every two weeks to allow us to check the specific gravity of each cell, maintain the water at the proper level, check the terminals, keep them clean and well greased and watch for any signs of the battery needing small repairs or recharging."

"This service is free, but it pays dividends and we can safely say that we have probably the lowest number of kicks per sale of any business in town. Our customers realize that we are interested in helping them and do all they can to cooperate. When they fail to come in for service, as many of them forget to do now and then, we remind them with a mailing card. And customers appreciate this service — not only because it keeps their batteries performing efficiently but also because it shows them we stand squarely back of every Willard battery we sell them. And that means a lot to a customer."

RAISINS AREN'T ALL TWINS---SOME ARE JUST COUSINS

Naturally, raisins cost more when they are big and uniform, clean and hand picked and sorted, free from stems and carefully packed. Some-one had to do all that work and they had to be paid for it. But, you can't get the best unless you pay the price.

Raisins are just one of hundreds of items that a baker must buy. Raisins alone won't affect the price of his products. But when you use only the best of everything and pay top prices, that DOES mean that you can't cut prices unless you cut down on quality.

When you buy Cobb's products you know that you're getting quality products that cost more to make. Cobb's Fluffy White bread, raisin bread, rye, graham, doughnuts — they're worth every cent they cost because there has been no skimping in their making.

LINCOLN

On the 9th of April, 1865, Lee surrendered to Grant at Appomattox and the rebellion was broken, although Sherman was still trying to come to mortal grips with Johnston in the south. On the night of April 14th Lincoln was assassinated.

As is customary with one so deeply loved and admired every act of his upon the last day alive has been examined with scrutiny. Lincoln had a deep strain of melancholy, a great and overwhelming pity for the suffering the war had wrought. He carried the burdens of a nation on his heart and when the nation bled he bled.

To several persons on his last day he quoted that passage from Macbeth:

"Duncan is in his grave;

After life's fitful fever, he sleeps well;

Treason has done his worst; nor steel nor poison;

Malice domestic, foreign levy, nothing,

Can touch him further."

Many have seen, and like to see, Lincoln's conclusion that with the end of the war he, like the great Duncan, was through. It is not improbable that, contemplating other men who had carried heavy burdens, he saw nothing but rest and sweet forgetfulness in the grave, ease from the crushing and heart-rending burdens he had so manfully borne. To him, his work was done. He had saved the Union he loved, the Constitution in which he gloried. Democracy was not to perish from the earth. As a matter of fact he was needed most sorely in the days that followed.

On his last afternoon he held a cabinet meeting to discuss the policies of reconstruction. Said he: "There must be no persecution, no bloody work." He knew of the elements in the North thirsting to drain the South's last drop of blood, to crush out of it its last flicker of life. He arose above the hatreds of the period, with the realization that there could be no lasting peace if retaliation held sway, that peace and friendship can only result from a policy of give-and-take, a mutual forgiveness.

Continuing to his cabinet he said: "I will not take part in hanging even the worst of them. We must extinguish our resentment. There is too little respect for the rights of the South." Lincoln had by proclamation freed all slaves. His right to do so had bothered him. Slaves were property. They had been purchased under constitutional protection. The President's right to free them could only be traced to the fact that he was commander-in-chief of the army, that a state of war existed and that therefore, but only as a war policy, could they be freed.

Lincoln inquired whether it was not immoral to free these slaves without making compensation to their owners. His cabinet was solidly against him. They had not risen, nor could they rise to the height of impartial consideration of which the President was capable.

But the matter continued to bother Lincoln. Would it not be better, was it not but just, he inquired, that the slave owner be paid for the freed slaves even if another bond issue must be added to the load under which the federal government was bending and straining! It was merely a matter of justice to him, justice even for those who had been instrumental in bringing the black badge of mourning to nearly every house in the land.

The madman who killed him, the man whose reason had been toppled by excessive adoration of the institution of slavery, was directly responsible for loading upon the South the miseries of "the tragic era," the twelve years of reconstruction following the war. Such is usually the result of violence.

Lincoln had been the object of brutal and vulgar diatribe and heartless criticism. None had been more adept, cutting or persistent than the London Punch, quick however to recant and apologize for its long course of abuse, and in such apology it probably spoke the heart of the world:

"Beside the corpse that bears for winding sheet

The stars and stripes he lived to rear anew,

Between the mourners at his head and feet,

Say, scurrile jester, is there room for you?

"Yes, he had lived to shame me from my sneer,

To lame my pencil, and confute my pen;

To make me own this hind of princes peer,

The rail-splitter a true-born king of men."

OVERBURDENED EXECUTIVES

"Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown" is an old platitude which has the ring of truth, but some of the old crowned heads had an easy time of it compared to the men who are today the heads of their respective governments. The amount of work and responsibility devolving upon these men is not given much thought by the average person, yet the important problems to be met and solved each day takes its toll in a liberal supply of their mental and physical vitality.

The President of the United States, even in the ordinary performance of his duties has, as Theodore Roosevelt said, "an infamous amount of work to do." But President Hoover seems to have, more than any recent executive, an unusual number of perplexing problems before him. The constant effort and study required for a proper solution of these problems, some of which may have far-reaching effects on the nation's future, is not work readily shouldered by the ordinary individual.

Conditions in Germany present problems exceedingly difficult in the organization of the new republic. With thirteen distinct political parties represented in the Reichstag, the difficulties of coordinating constructive effort is extremely great, and the President and his cabinet have work to do far beyond that of the ordinary governmental executives.

But perhaps no man since the World war has been confronted with greater problems than has Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald of England. With many domestic problems at home, such as unemployment, strikes and lock-outs, financial worries due to enormous debts and economic depression, he is also burdened with some of the most momentous problems that have come to the British empire in generations. The vision of a disintegrating empire must be before him. The dominions are working more and more towards complete independence. The recent conference of dominion premiers was not all that might be expected of a homogeneous nation. And the Round Table Conference on India and her status was, and still is, of such a character as to tax the heart of a superman. The solution of these problems may result in the continued unity of Great Britain and its dominions beyond the seas, or its dissolution into separate and distinct nations.

Dictators like Mussolini of Italy or Stalin of Russia have their own difficulties to meet, but many of their worries and nagging problems are brushed aside by the mailed fist. It takes a stalwart heart to do the work of a MacDonald or a Hoover. It's the men who rule democracies who give the most of themselves.

Today's Anniversary

GEORGIA DAY
On Feb. 12, 1773, General James Oglethorpe, a member of the English Parliament, founded Georgia.

Oglethorpe had petitioned King George II to grant him and his associates a charter for a tract of land for 21 years, in the southern part of South Carolina. He had three objects in view:

1. To give the worthy and honest poor of England—especially those confined in debtor's prisons—an opportunity to begin life anew in the new world.

2. To furnish a refuge to the persecuted Protestants of Southern Europe.

3. To protect the Carolinians against the attacks of the Spaniards of Florida by building up a settlement on the southern frontier.

The immigrants settled on the Savannah River, from which they named the town Savannah, and named the new colony Georgia, in honor of the king.

Oglethorpe's landing is celebrated annually as Georgia Day in Georgia.

The Boxer Rebellion was caused by the uprising of the Chinese Anti-Missionary Society in 1900, when many Christians were murdered, and order had to be restored by the concerted action of foreign powers.

Cologne Cathedral, a magnificent example of Gothic architecture, was six centuries in the building.

Manganese ore-reserves in Java are estimated to contain more than 10,000,000 tons.

At six per cent interest a sum of money will double in 15 years and 8 months.

RIGHT NOW it's a problem to know whether to clap our hands in glee and go in search of pansies, or sit down and gloom about the TERRIBLE weather to come . . . these May mornings in February put us in a terrible quandary . . . but we might as well enjoy it while we can . . . nevertheless, if the weather man gives us blizzards in March and April, we're gonna look him up and present him with a swift kick in the trousers . . .

We are a gentleman. At least, that's our story. And we hope to continue to be one. But if that dam woman who pulls clear over to the right prior to making a left turn and pulls clear over to the left when making a right turn and cuts pedestrians off at intersections and turns left at traffic lights when cars are passing her from the opposite direction and then puts her car in a no parking zone with a disdainful snit continues to act that way . . .

Well, we won't be a gentleman any more.

Somehow, the government should get an idea for farm relief out of this opium racket.

Just Folks

MAN

I would not play it the hog's way
Or even the dog's way.
I would sit calmly and eat
My bread and my meat.
I would not sprawl on the floor
Nor splash in the trough to get all,
Seeking the last drop and more.
Nor in the dirt would I crawl,
Rooting in the mud with my snout
For the crumbs I could well do without.

Two-legged, upright God made me!
And this compliment paid me:
Others by instinct are bound,
Wolf, hog and hound
Must look to themselves to the end,
But from instinct's commands you are free!
You can be neighbor and friend;
Can be what you've courage to be!
You can think and can dream and can plan,
For you have the role of a man!

And if I should play it the hog's way
Or even the dog's way,
The snarl and the grunt
Would my reason affront.
Still to scramble and struggle for more,
Still to think I had naught I could spare
If there should come a tap on my door
To the friend or the stranger out there,
Would he stop short of the plan
Which God had in mind for man?

Looking Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

Thursday, Feb. 10, 1921

Italy was ready to participate in a disarmament conference, a United Press correspondent at Rome was told that day at the foreign offices.

Application for a marriage license was made that day by Irvin Peters, Greenville, and Lena Brown, Appleton.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Wolter expected to leave within a few days for Florida and Cuba on a two months' visit.

Mrs. Sylvia Meicher had returned from a visit at Milwaukee.

Jack Shapiro and Miss Rose Shapiro were visiting in Chicago.

Chris Roemer visited at Nichols the preceding Wednesday.

Mrs. George Fargo visited in Kaukauna the previous Tuesday.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Thursday, Feb. 13, 1906

The marriage of Miss Helen Ruth Verran, Chicago, to Irvin F. Strauss, son of Ferdinand Strauss, Appleton, took place at the home of the bridegroom, 775 Franklin-st., at 5 o'clock that afternoon.

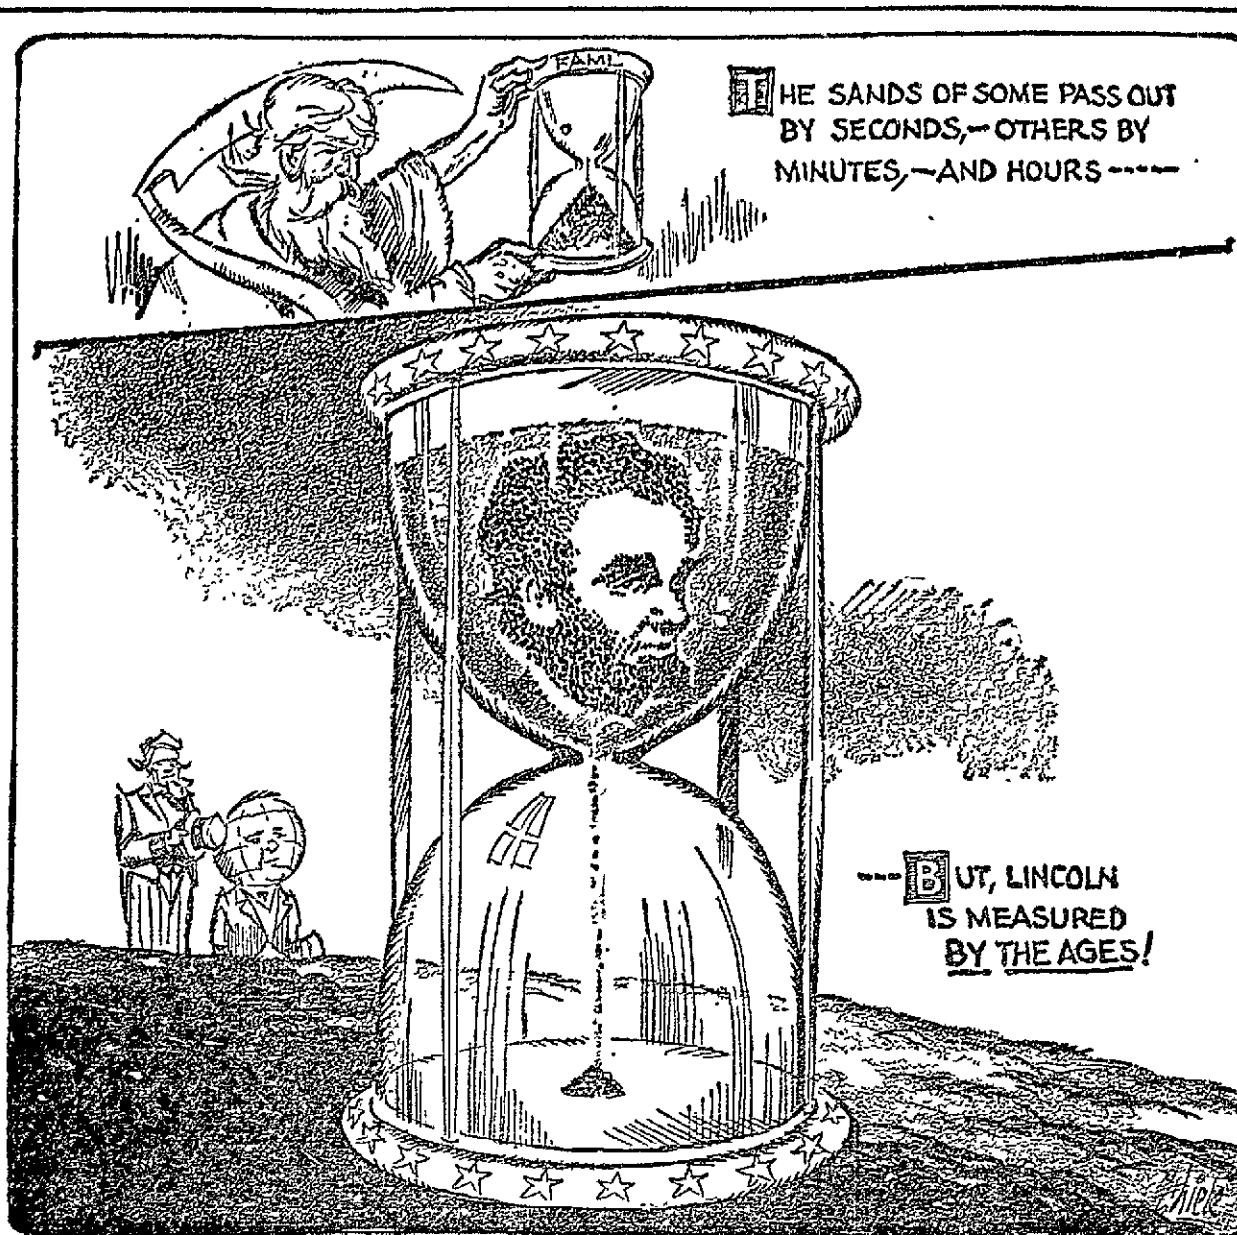

Announcement had been made of the marriage of Emil Voeks to Mrs. Bertha Hale which took place the previous Monday evening at the home of the bride at Hortonville.

J. H. Baum visited in Kaukauna the previous day in the interest of his business.

L. H. Koller transacted business in Kaukauna the day before.

David Stenbauer returned the preceding day from a trip through Washington and Idaho.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

CHILDREN WITH ENLARGED TONSILS AND ADENOIDS.

Before I ever hung out my shingle I armed myself with what I believed to be the indispensable tools of my trade. Among them was one called a tonsilometer, an ingenious gadget having a ring frame in three sizes to fit office, household and hospital size tonsils, and a little two pronged spear to impale the quarry and finally a guillotine blade which one shoves home when the tonsil is well engaged in the ring. One fine feature of this method of dealing with tonsils was its simplicity and ease of application. You just jolted the patient into the chair and applied a bit of local anesthetic or put him under ether and inserted the gadget and went snigger-snack, and it was all over. Strange to say this crude treatment proved perfectly satisfactory in a considerable share of cases, perhaps a majority. There are thousands of people walking the earth today who owe their release from annual attacks of quinsy to the old Spanish custom. There are other thousands who have recovered from or escaped disabling infections, thanks to the same old custom. For amputating the hypertrophied tonsils of children the guillotine is still the method of choice, in my judgment.

Since the guillotine instrument was introduced the throat surgeons have developed a modification of the method. Instead of engaging the tonsil in the ring and slicing it off with a quick yank of the guillotine blade, they prefer to use a wire snare and cut the tonsil off by constricting it with the fine wire. In this way perhaps a greater part of the tonsil is removed and there is less bleeding.

For some time the throat surgeons prated of the importance of removing every little bit of tonsil tissue, and all that but this was 99 per cent talk. Rarely does the best of specialists remove the tonsil entirely. Rarely is it necessary or even desirable to attempt to do so.

There is no sound reason to regard tonsil tissue as inimical to health, unless the tonsil is infected, harbors germs capable of causing some serious systemic disease. When the tonsil is infected it is rarely infected thru and thru; the infected area or areas are, as a rule, readily distinguishable from the normal tonsil tissue, on examination by the physician or the pathologist. Our proper purpose is to remove or sterilize the infected portion. That is precisely why the old Spanish custom often did give a satisfactory result, even though it always left more or less tonsil tissue in the throat. That is why the snare method so much used by throat specialists now gives satisfaction in many cases. And that is why the modern method, diathermy (electro-coagulation, electro-decimation) is giving satisfaction in so many cases.

Candidly I have no definite idea about the purpose or function of the tonsils in childhood, or of the pharyngeal tonsil (the mass of tissue in the vault behind the soft palate called "adenoids" when enlarged), but it seems reasonable to think this tissue serves some good purpose in childhood. From its character and structure as seen under the microscope we assume this peculiar type of tissue is concerned somehow in protecting the body against the invasion of disease germs, but only in childhood. The tonsils normally undergo evolution and atrophy or shrinkage in early adult life.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Seven Times in Same Place.

I have had superficial erysipelas seven times in the past two or three years. It always starts in my face. Can you tell me any way to prevent this? (Mrs. D. L. S.)

Answer—If it is genuine erysipelas there must be some permanent septic focus from which the specific Streptococcus comes. Either your own or another's. The only thing I can suggest for you is so-called bacterial vaccine treatment by your doctor.

Does Clash on "Taking Cold."

What is the layman to do when the doctors disagree? (J. E. M.)

Answer—Mr. M. incloses a clipping of a debate between Drs. Lees and Taylor, of St. Paul. Dr. Taylor is for open windows, and he cites data from the report of the N. Y. Ventilation commission, to support his contention. Dr. Lees is for keeping the windows closed in cold weather, and he cites data from the same source. Both doctors are talking about "colds." Now if I may toss in a word I would challenge either or both of them to give a definition of "the common cold" so the rest of us will understand what they're quarreling about.

Rubber Garment Reduction. Please tell me whether the wearing of rubber stockings to reduce my ankles and eliminate excess fat will cause any trouble. My leg was broken several years ago. Will the moisture caused by the rubber stocking doing away with the excess fat do any harm? (Mrs. D.L.S.)

Answer—So the moisture that collects under the rubber (because the natural sweat can't evaporate) is the fat being eliminated, is it? That's what the humbugs who market such garments would have simple minded folk believe. But I assure you that no such garment will reduce anything—except your bank roll. The rubber stockings will do you no more harm than they would a silly Tully who has never had a leg broken or even hurt. Of course such garments, interfering with the evaporation of sweat, are scarcely hygienic.

This Is Not a Clinic.

I have been bothered with two patches of ringworm . . . glad to have you send me a prescription . . . (Mrs. F. E.)

Answer—Consult a physician. (Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

"O H, GEE," cried Clowry, "Tw'll be fun if for some charcoal we could run. I'd like to build a charcoal fire along the road nearby. Let's buy the charcoal and some meat and cook ourselves a little treat. The thought of one nice sandwich that is juicy makes me sigh."

The Travel Man said, "Say, that's great and, if you Tynmites will wait right here for me, I'll soon return with things that we desire. A bag of charcoal will suffice and everything will work out nice. There's nothing quite as pretty as a growing charcoal fire."

A bag of charcoal soon was glad to each chip in a little bit to buy the hamburger steak. Then, in his excitement they all jumped and down the bumpy road they thumped. "Let's get real soon," said Clowry, "we'll have a tummy ache."

They found a spot not far away and Conny loudly shouted, "Hey! Jump out here, now, everyone and let's all do our share." The fire was built and then the bunch cooked sandwiches and had some lunch. "Say, this is fine," said Conny, eating in the open air.

Soon Conny jumped up from the ground and said, "I'm going to look around, and see what I can find here. Who wants to hike along?" The Travel Man said, "We'll all go. That is, if you will travel slow." And then they scampered over the ground and Clowry sang a song.

The Travel Man stopped at a tree and said, "We're lucky as can be. This tree is called the Traveler's Tree. There's water in its trunk. I'll show you what it's all about." He

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—Rarely since the days of John Sharp Williams, that fine old southern leader who represented Mississippi in the United States senate, has capitol hill heard so much poetry spilled as at present.

When Williams was in the senate poetry enjoyed an era that might lightly be termed golden. The Mississippi bard could make a speech without incorporating rhymes of some sort. His choice ranged from the classic to bits of doggerel which he was fond of composing himself on the spur of the moment.

The senator's habit of quoting poetry on the floor once so exasperated Borah of Idaho that he was moved to make the rather sarcastic observation:

"While I usually enjoy the speech made by the senator from Mississippi, I must say that his poetry at times is rotten."

Keep Up Tradition

With Williams' departure, however, poetry was not heard so frequently on the senate floor. George Norris of Nebraska, who likes to rhyme now and then, would be heard from occasionally. And Tom Heflin of Alabama—perhaps more so than any of the others—delighted in punctuating his remarks with stanzas.

But since the senate has had under discussion the question of drought relief, poetry has been spilled recklessly on the floor. Both good and bad is heard almost daily.

For example, there's the poetic appeal for relief, written by a man down in Arkansas, which Senator Caraway offered the other day:

"We are not asking much; only a chance
To earn the food and clothing by hard work;
Do not deny this bit, O friend of ours,
The need is great; in name of mercy, do not shrink."

There were six stanzas to this poem, all of which were "respectfully ascribed to the President of the United States."

Heflin Poetry

A little later on the same day, Senator Heflin was making an impassioned plea for the drought sufferers when he felt the urge to swing into a three-stanza poem, one of which went something like this:

"The politician talks and talks,
The soldier glitters on parade,
The goldsmith piles his art,
The scientist pursues his germ
O'er the terrestrial ball,
The sailor navigates his ship,
But the farmer feeds them all."

Too, there are others which have been heard, within the last few weeks. For example, there is "The Moneyless Man," which has for its theme:

"Oh, search the wide world, where'er you can,
There is no open door for a moneyless man.
There are six stanzas of it, too, eight lines to the stanza.

dipped and brought some water out and many cups were drunk. (Copyright, 1931, N.E.A. Service, Inc.) (Clowry finds a little pet in the next story.)

RACINE WRIT IS DISSOLVED BY DECISION

But Court Scores Defendants in William Dee Supply Co. Case

Racine—(P)—Municipal Judge E. F. Burgess today ordered the dissolution of a temporary injunction obtained by Bernard Rieser, former alderman, restraining three city officials from paying two bills totaling about $45 to the William Dee Supply company.

The court took exception to the answer filed by the defendant officials in which it is admitted "that for many years past it has been and now is the practice of officials of the city of Racine to perform services and purchase supplies for the city of Racine in their private capacities."

"It comes with rather a shock," the decision read, "when it is stated in a verified answer that officials of the city of Racine in disregard of Sec. 348.28 R. S. Wis., 1929, this statute has been passed upon by the supreme court many times and its violation calls for a severe penalty. Public officials above all others should go farther and scrupulously avoid even an appearance of violation."

"The court, despite the statements made in the defendants' answer, cannot believe that such a practice prevailed."

It was charged in Rieser's complaint that the William Dee Supply company was a fictitious name under which supplies were sold to the city by the William Armstrong Foundry company, of which Mayor William Armstrong is a stockholder.

The action of the court was taken primarily because it was shown that the two bills involved in the restraining order have already been paid. Arguments for a permanent injunction, and trial of a suit to force the William Dee Supply company to refund $11,000 to the city will be heard at the March term of municipal court.

MRS. MILLER IS GRANTED DIVORCE

Accepts Settlement of $1,000 and Residence on Alton-st

A divorce was granted in municipal court early this afternoon by Judge Theodore Berg to Mrs. E. F. Miller, 908 E. Alton-st, from her husband, Earl F. Miller, Appleton.

This suit was started Oct. 11, 1930, when Mrs. Miller filed suit for divorce from his wife. Later she filed an answer and a counterclaim. Both charged cruel and inhuman treatment.

Prof. Percy Fullinwider, founder and director of the Conservatory Symphony Orchestra, which will present a program at Memorial chapel Monday evening.

The Conservatory Symphony orchestra, which will present a concert at Memorial chapel Monday evening was organized in 1911 by Percy Fullinwider, its present director.

At the time of its inception the orchestra consisted of 12 or 14 members, and the instrumentation was limited to the more familiar instruments such as the violin, cello, bass viol, cornet, clarinet, flute, trombone and drums. Since the advent of the instrumental course at the conservatory such instruments as the oboe, bassoon and French horn have been added.

The orchestra advanced in performance from the simple arrangements of light music to the standard overtures and symphonies of the master composers. Some of the numbers which have been presented in the past few years include Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony," Haydn's "Surprise Symphony," "Oboron Overture," Weber, "Titus Overture," Mozart: "Fifth Symphony," Beethoven, and many others of equal fame.

Mr. Fullinwider will open the program on Monday evening with Beethoven's Overture, "Prometheus," which says has not been performed in Appleton in the past 20 years, if ever.

DANIEL, HULBERT ON VESPER PROGRAM

Organ and Vocal Selections to Be Presented at Methodist Church

An organ and vocal program will be presented Sunday afternoon at the Methodist vesper service by Cyrus Daniel, organist, and Marshall Hulbert, baritone.

Mr. Daniel a member of the American Guild of Organists, received his music degree from Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill., in 1921. He studied organ with Stanley Martin of Chicago, spent two months in Paris under the eminent organist, Joseph Denet, and has done extensive composition work under Arne Oldberg of Evanston. He has written sonatas for piano and violin, variations for string quartet, and several songs and small pieces. At present an instructor in the theory department of Lawrence conservatory, and organist at the Methodist church, Mr. Daniel has had seven years experience as church organist and choir director.

Mr. Hulbert, who will sing a number of solos, is a graduate of Lawrence college whose vocal work is well known in Appleton. He appeared as soloist for the Lawrence Glee club for several years, sang solo roles in a number of operettas and oratorios, and is now a member of the Methodist quartet. After his graduation from Lawrence he taught for several years at Wausau, where he made a number of public appearances. He is now studying under Dean Carl J. Waterman.

Each Child Different From Other

MAYBE

People who are strictly honest with themselves and other people never say positively that they know what is the best for a child. Nobody knows that. What will work with one child will not work with another though both are of the same family, subjected to the same influences. Each child is subject to different influences, because each child is different from every other.

When a school announces that it has a cure for all educational disorders, doubt that school. It may be able to help some children, any school is able to do that. It may be able to help a great many children, a few schools can do that, but no school can do a hundred per cent job because of the nature of childhood.

Sometimes we discover a new method of teaching a subject and immediately there is a tendency to insist that every child be taught that way. Or there is a new idea born in the laboratory that must be tried on all children that their salvation may be achieved. Each educational salesman cries his wares, which is his right, but the end is not yet. That lies far off in the lap of the gods. If one could but discover a magic that reached every child in the world—would that be a tragedy or a great triumph?

In the meantime we must search on, keeping our minds open that no profitable thought escapes. Each educational idea has value for some child or children. While it may not help all it will help some and that is highly important. That is the only way children can be helped, each according to his need and we should welcome each theory, each contribution, to the sum of knowledge in the hope that somewhere, somehow, some child will benefit.

A school ought to be a place where ideas on education are welcomed and tried out. A school beyond all places in the world ought to be a haven of refuge for the teacher and the scientist and the open-minded teacher. The closed mind should have no place there. That means that no idea is to be taken as final but that every idea is to be welcomed and scrutinized lest anything of value escape us.

Of course, that means a different attitude from what we find in most of our schools. But we need that different attitude. School must become a place of life; as much a place of life as the village where it serves. When all the homes are built alike, furnished alike, run alike, then the school can be standardized likewise without loss. But that will never be while humanity remains human.

We will each build the sort of house we want, the kind of home we want. We will furnish it according to our tastes. We will run it according to our own ideas. Then what about the children—who come from these homes? Who are to live in these homes of their own by? Make them all alike?

It cannot be done. There is no such scheme in nature, in life anywhere. There is no finality, no answer to our overlasting question. We go on according to what light we have within us, a mystery even unto our selves. Even so, it is better to grope ahead than to sit by the roadside a monument to our own deadness.

Mrs. Flora Langstadt and Mrs. Belle Hart were hostesses.

Mrs. Joseph Marston, 221 N. Lawest, will be hostess to Over the Teacups club at 245 Friday afternoon at her home. Mrs. Oliver Smith will be the reader, Mrs. W. H. Killen will present the magazine article and Mrs. Charles Baker will have charge of current events.

Mrs. Ernestine Sonntag, 614 N. Batem-st, will entertain the Sunshine club at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at her home. Each member is to bring a ball of carpet rags. Roll call will be answered with quotations from Abraham Lincoln. Hostesses are Mrs. Sonntag, Mrs. Clara Miller and Mrs. Amanda Pfeil.

Ten tables of cards were in play at the Guest Day of Lady Eagles Wednesday afternoon at the Women's club. Prizes at bridge were won by Mrs. Fred Bendt and Mrs. George Hogreiver and at schafkopf by Mrs. John Van Roy and Mrs. Ted Missing.

B. J. Rohan, superintendent of schools, gave a talk on Equality of Education at the meeting of Franklin Mothers' club Wednesday afternoon at the school. Kindergarten children entertained with songs and a play, "Little Black Sambo." Mrs. John Trautman and Mrs. Ed Petznick gave a vocal duet. Forty members were present.

The reading circle of First English Lutheran church will meet at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Koch, Summer-st. The group is reading "Blazing New Trails."

Appleton Encampment, Order of Odd Fellows, will meet at 8 o'clock Friday night at Odd Fellow hall. Routine business will be discussed.

RACINE WOMAN ROBBED

Racine—(P)—Two men held up Mrs. Hyman Wolfman in a fruit store here last night and escaped with $30 in cash, according to a report to police.

Four Badger Women To Be Honored At Capitol

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—Four famous Wisconsin women will be honored with 68 other women from various states in the early spring when the National League of Women Voters unveils its bronze memorial tablet in the historic Washington headquarters of the League.

The four Wisconsin women who will be so honored for their pioneering in the cause of woman suffrage, are Belle Case La Follette, Mathilde Franziska Anneke, Reverend Olympia Brown, and Jessie Jack Hooper.

Eleven other ardent workers for suffrage will be honored by Wisconsin in its State Roll of Honor, which will also be hung in the Washington headquarters, and exhibited at the time the memorial is unveiled.

These 11 are Ellen C. Sablin, Rachel Jastrow, Emma Curtiss Bascom, Edna Chynoweth, Gertrude Frazier, Mrs. Gustav A. Hipke, Mrs. Victor L. Berger, Mrs. Charles M. Morris, Mrs. Henry M. Youmans, Dr. Ida L. Shell, and Clara Bewick Colby.

A total of 279 women, some living and many dead, will be honored on the various State Honor Rolls.

Leading the National Roll of Honor will be the names of Susan B. Anthony, Anna Howard Shaw and Carrie Chapman Catt, who did so much to make the "cause" a "victory."

Many of the women, whose names will appear on the State Rolls of Honor, are memorialized by their own states for their work as pioneers in the suffrage movement in their counties and states, while others were leaders in the organization and development of the League of Women Voters.

The Washington headquarters of the League are made in a lovely old-fashioned house with high ceilings, quaint doorways, and historic legends. It is the house that was once the home of General Townsend, the headquarters of General Grant, the home of Clara Barton, and the headquarters of the American Red Cross.

MISS KABKE IS BRIDE OF G. RICHTER, JR.

The marriage of Miss Lorena Kabke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kabke, 507 N. Division-st, to Gustave A. Richter, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Richter, R. Woodstock, Ill., took place at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening at First Congregational church. The Rev. H. E. Peabody performed the ceremony. Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ebert, Appleton. A 6:30 dinner was served at Candie Glow tea room to the wedding party, after which Mr. and Mrs. Richter left on their trip to Chicago and Woodstock. On their return they will make their home in Appleton.

Goitre Not a Disease

Milwaukee Doctor Makes Remarkable Discovery

Milwaukee, Wis. — It has been brought to light by scientific research that goitre is not a disease and is not to be treated as such. Dr. A. A. Rock, Dept. A-1, Box 737, Milwaukee, Wis., a prominent goitre specialist for over 24 years, has perfected a different method of treatment for his patients that has proved remarkably successful. This same method is now being used for a home treatment of goitre cases all over the country with astonishing results. The Doctor states that goitre is a condition which grows worse with neglect and recommends immediate attention no matter how small the growth may appear. He strongly opposes needless operations. Dr. Rock is the author of a book that tells in a simple way about treating goitre at home. He has published this book at his own expense and will send a copy free to anyone interested. Write him today. Adv.

When cleaning oilcloth do not use either soap or ammonia, as they fade the colors and give a dull look. Wash with a flannel wrung out in warm water and rinse over with skimmed milk. Rub with a dry cloth and a beautiful gloss will result.

Mix ingredients for ginger cookies with cold coffee instead of water. It improves them.

When a coal range is not in use apply melted lard all over it and it will not rust.

Grapefruit and oranges may be judged by their weight. Never buy a light fruit. A heavy, thin-skinned fruit is always the best.

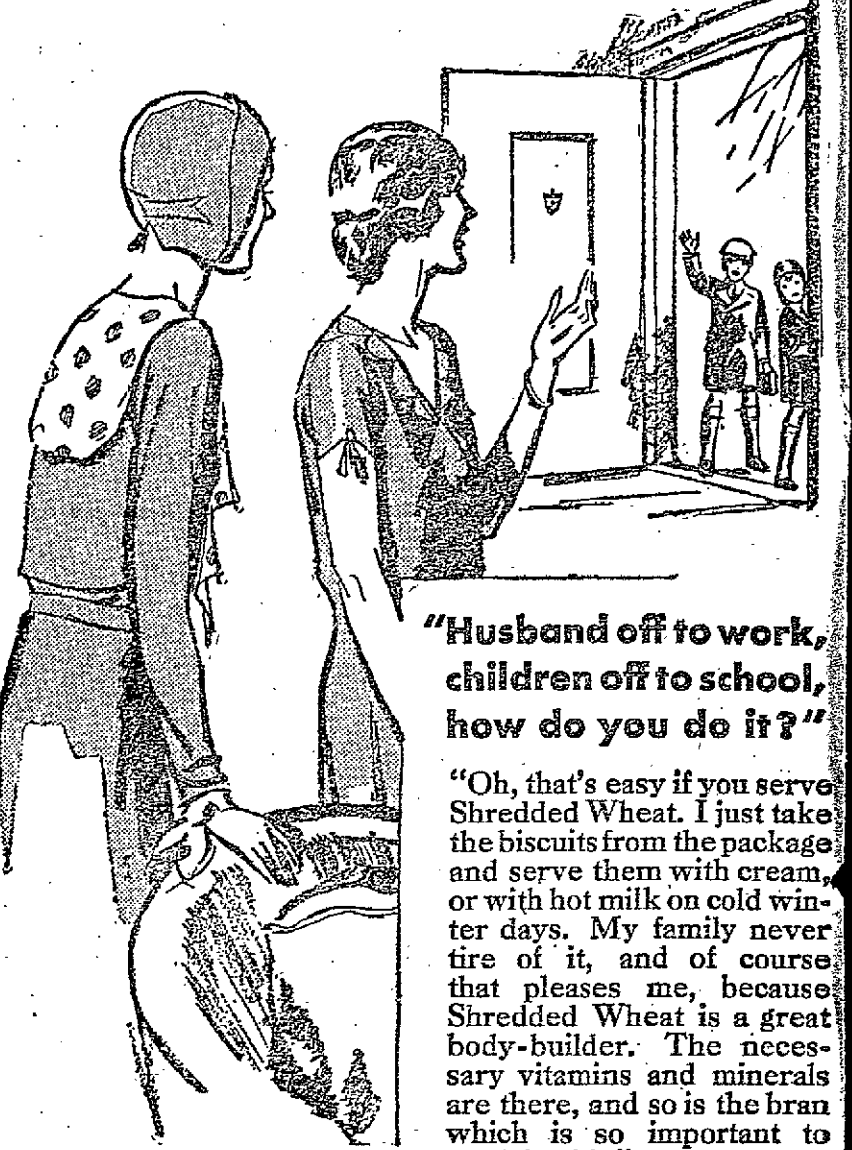

Before sweeping a rug or carpet take an old round tin, pierce holes in the bottom and fill it with common salt. Sprinkle this over the carpet. It prevents the dust from rising, brightening the colors and wards off moths.

OFFICERS OF MOOSEHEART ARE HONORED

A valentine party in honor of retiring officers was given by Women of Mooseheart Legion Wednesday night after the regular business meeting at Moose temple. About 30 members were present. Gifts were presented to the retiring officers who include Mrs. Julia Foreman, Mrs. Agnes Fredericks, Mrs. Martha Gehlin, Mrs. Mary Zuehlke, and Mrs. Henrietta Nathron.

Cards were played and prizes were won at schafkopf by Mrs. Mary Zuehlke, and at dice by Mrs. Clara Rank. A lunch was served. Tables were decorated in Valentine effects. Hostesses at the party were Mrs. Emma Auer, Mrs. Mae Mueller, Mrs. Margaret Mc Gregor, Mrs. Jennie Feasel, Mrs. Adora Hauert, Mrs. Hazel Ulrich, Mrs. Margaret Ward, and Mrs. Agnes Hafnerbecker, new officers of the chapter.

Experts have estimated the coal deposits in the Ruhr district of Germany at 23,500,000 tons.

"Husband off to work, children off to school, how do you do it?"

"Oh, that's easy if you serve Shredded Wheat. I just take the biscuits from the package and serve them with cream, or with hot milk on cold winter days. My family never tire of it, and of course that pleases me, because Shredded Wheat is a great body-builder. The necessary vitamins and minerals are there, and so is the bran which is so important to good health."

The Story of Sue

CORRINNE had gone back to work as usual in the bargain basement on the day following the searching party at her home. She had adjusted the golden wig and eyebrows and removed her rings. Not quite sure where they would be safest she finally had given them to Sarah.

"Wear them today, won't you, Sarah?" she had asked. "I'm afraid to leave them in my pocketbook at the store. I've been doing it and I'm frightened all the time. It isn't safe here, either."

Corrinne had been at work only a few minutes when she became aware that there was a strange girl at the counter with her. Her hair was rust-colored and her eyes were a queer, slate gray. She noticed Corrinne almost at once, too.

"You're new, aren't you? I'm Maybelline Smith, Mabel for short. My mother thought my last name needed something to pep it up so she named me for a serial queen. It isn't copy-righted. I've been out for a while."

"And I'm Rosalee Hyde," Corrinne felt herself flushing as she gave the fictitious name.

"You surely have the blond looks, kid. Your own color? More power to you. But men aren't what they used to be. They are getting darker ideas. Anyway, you've got the looks. But a lot of chance you'll have of meeting the Romeos in their mid-day strolls down here where the biggest bargain you can get is 69 cent washable crepe!"

During the morning Corrinne discovered that the new girl was inclined to be talkative. She was restless and her eyes roved over the store, again and again. Corrinne learned that she had been ill the day before, but that she had worked in the store for several months.

At noon Corrinne went to the nearest drugstore, sat on a high stool and ordered a milk shake and sandwich as usual. She stayed as near the darkest corner of the counter as possible. She had a strange feeling that the wig might fall off, or that someone might recognize her.

Jack came in, bought a paper, and went out. Corrinne gazed at him, wondering if she would be recognized but his eyes were impersonal.

A man next to her at the counter started to discuss the case of the bank against Corrinne's father with the clerk, and she listened.

"I don't think Merryman would do it. He's always been a decent sort of fellow..... quiet, self-respecting..... but if he's framed he's going to have a hard time to slip out."

The sandwich started to choke Corrinne. She gave a little, gasping sound, paid her bill and walked out.

Back at the store she discovered that she had 10 minutes before time to go back to her counter. She went into the rest room, sank down in the nearest chair and because she couldn't help it, let the sobs come.

She heard the door open but her tears wouldn't stop. Then Maybelline's voice reached her.

"Why, Rosalee, what's the matter?" There was real sympathy in the tones.

"Oh..... nothing! I just don't feel well!"

"But there is. Don't tell me if you don't want to. We all have our troubles, you know. They're marked on the calendar in advance. I've been having an awful time, too. But things surely worked out all right. Yours will too, if you wait. I'm supposed to keep still about this, but you don't know the man anyway, so I can show you something that will make you forget your worries. Look at the gift I have!"

But it wasn't awe that Corrinne's face mirrored. It was utter astonishment. In the center of the girl's palm lay the shimmering, dancing emerald that had disappeared from Harry Becker's safety deposit box.

NEXT: Corrinne learns more about the emerald.

KETCHUM TO DISCUSS PHYSICS OF SOUND

The Physics of Sound as Related to Music is the subject of Clement D. Ketchum, high school physics teacher, will discuss Thursday evening at 7:30 in the science lecture room at Appleton high school. The talk will be presented to the Instrumental Supervisors' group conducted by E. C. Moore at the Conservatory. Mr. Ketchum will demonstrate his lecture with sound equipment.

BOARD TO MEET

The board of education will meet at Lincoln school at 7 o'clock Friday evening. Monthly business will be transacted.

Tells How to Get Rid of Stubborn Torturing ECZEMA

Don't waste time with makeshifts — it takes something powerful to put Eczema out of business — and Emerald Oil is a concentrated, powerful antiseptic — it's effective — it does the work and a generous bottle costs but 55 cents.

It will stop the itching promptly and in a short time rid you of bothersome fiery eczema or you can get your money back from Schintz Bros. Co. 3 stores: Vogel's Drug Store, or any other good drugstore.

Note: Being such an effective antiseptic remedy, Moore's Emerald Oil is much used and with splendid results for broken Varicose Veins, Skin Blemishes, Itching Skin, Pimples, Acne and Psoriasis. Remember also that Athletes Foot is caused by germs which germinate in Emerald Oil kills them. The killing of germs and so on so forth are the facts. Corrinne's adventures with each bottle. Advt.

NEW DANCE IS INTRODUCED BY CAPITAL DEBS

Washington —(AP)— The walkie-talkie is the latest dance step devised by a group of capital debutantes.

Its basis is the fox trot, but it is such a denatured trot that one scarcely associates its languid, elegant movements with jazz.

It was evolved as a fitting accompaniment to the new long demure-looking gowns. The deb and her partner take a few sauntering steps, then unclasp hands. Their hands dangle aimlessly in the air as the owners become apparently absorbed in conversation.

The trick, on the girl's part, is to look so interested at her partner's remarks that she completely forgets that she has hands or feet. The girl, big-eyed, entranced, literally hangs upon what her partner is saying as he supports her with one arm.

Suddenly the music recalls the dance, and she returns with a bounce from her soulful contemplation of the ceiling. Her partner whirls her around until her long skirts make a sweeping circle of color.

Katrina McCormick, daughter of Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, and her set are sponsoring the "walkie-talkie." To do it a girl must do triple duty—a dancer, a listener and a small-talker.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

Dear Miss Vane: Some time ago you told a girl through your column that you did not believe the young man in her story could possibly be keeping away from her because of lack of funds. Well, I think that any young man with enough pride would stay away from the girl he loved rather than embarrass her with his attentions when he had no money to spend on her. I am in love with a girl and I have never asked her for a date although I know she likes me and have heard from many people that she is puzzled at my attitude. But I cannot afford to take her out and so I will not make any move toward making friends. I am not asking for pity, just setting you right, BARNEY.

In the first place, the young man in my correspondent's story had shown no particular aversion to making friends with other girls, in spite of his lamentable financial condition—and in the second place, it's quite impossible to believe that there are very many boys in the world with your amount of pride.

There isn't any real reason why you shouldn't have a perfectly nice friendship with this girl, if she is really interested in you and anxious to see you.

There are a lot of girls in the world who aren't really thrilled to death over shows and movies and dances. They very naturally want to feel that their boy friends are anxious to entertain them—but they don't pine away and die if they're not taken out in grand style four or five times a week.

Any girl resents the parlor-snake who spends most of his time in her living room, enjoying her hospitality and who refuses point-blank to offer her any form of entertainment, simply because he's stingy, or because he wants to spend what money he has on someone else. That hurts a fair lady's pride—and no wonder.

But if you started a friendship on a perfectly frank basis, your particular fair one would have no reason to reproach you or to complain about your attitude. There is no shame in your poverty, and if she's a sensible girl and you tell her quite honestly of your inability to give her the usual sort of good times, she'll think twice as much of you as she did before.

The trouble is, like most people who have had to live with poverty—you're ashamed of your financial condition. You imagine that it belittles you and your family to admit that part of your earnings must go to support brothers and sisters. Actually you have a good deal to be proud of. So long as you're quite honest and aboveboard, you can keep your pride and make a few friends too.

A. C. If I were you I'd take up some form of hobby. Is there anything you're interested in—which would lead you to joining a class, or belonging to a club of some sort.

It's not true that all the nice men over thirty are married. If you were to see half of my daily correspondence it would convince you that there are plenty of young men over thirty who are looking around for nice girls to go out with—and you would be surprised to know the sort of girl they particularly ask for.

Get interested in some form of sport or study which will enable you to join up with a group of other people your age. And by all means invest in those pretty clothes you were discussing. You can never do yourself any harm by looking as attractive and charming as possible.

Elliot: Your trouble is with yourself, and must be discussed at some length. Please send stamped addressed envelope for personal reply.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any drugist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germladen phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

TWO INJURED IN ACCIDENTS; CARS DAMAGED

Miss Virginia Hoffman and Mrs. Ingemund Rassmussen Hurt at Neenah

Neenah—Cars owned and driven by Miss Ruth Dieckhoff, speech instructor at the high school, and John McDonald, were damaged, and Miss Virginia Hoffman received a broken nose and injured about the face in a collision at 8:30 Wednesday night on Main-st. Miss Dieckhoff, Miss Hoffman and Miss Marie Gallmeyer were on their way home from play rehearsal at the high school. When Miss Dieckhoff reached the curb in front of the Hoffman home, the McDonald car, the driver blinded by lights from a car approaching from the opposite direction, crashed into the rear of the parked car, according to police. The impact threw Miss Hoffman against the windshield.

Mrs. Ingemund Rassmussen, 325 River-st., Neenah, was injured shortly after 6 o'clock Wednesday evening when she was struck by a car driven by James Beck, Second-st., Menasha. Mrs. Rassmussen was crossing the street at the intersection of Forest-ave and N. Commercial-st when the accident occurred. She was taken into the Gift Shoppe where first aid was given her and later she was removed to Theda Clark hospital. X-ray pictures will be taken to determine if there are any broken bones.

PICK TEAMS SOON FOR CAGE TOURNEY

Selections Will Be Made at Meeting of Committee Feb. 28 at Menasha

Neenah—Selection of teams in the basketball tournament here March 12, 13 and 14 at Neenah high school gymnasium will be made on the evening of Feb. 28 at a meeting of tournament officials at Menasha. With the schedule entering the final lap the strongest teams can readily be chosen. John Holzman, high school principal, will have charge of the annual tournament here. Teams competing for places in the tournament are from Wrightstown, Winneconne, W. De Pere, Stockbridge, Shiocton, Plymouth, Omro, North Fond du Lac, New London, West Holstein, Neokora, Neenah, Menasha, Lomira, Kimberly, Kiel, Kaukauna, Hortonville, Hilbert, Freedom, Elkhardt Lake, Chilton, Brandon and Brillant. There also will be one team entered from the Appleton district. Of the above list, eight teams will be selected. The Neenah team won the conference, district and state honors last year. New London will be a strong contender for district honors.

DR. ALEXANDER SPEAKS TO KIWANIS MEMBERS

Neenah—Dr. John Alexander, St. Louis, of the American Youth Foundation, who is assisting in the Youth Week programs sponsored by the Boys' Brigade, spoke Wednesday noon at the Kiwanis weekly luncheon meeting.

Members of the Kiwanis club have been divided into two groups, one under leadership of Melvin Anderson and the other with Louis Larson as leader, for an attendance drive. The members are paired, each helping the other to attend the weekly meetings. The winners will be determined on a percentage basis, a suitable prize to be awarded the winning group.

On Tuesday noon, at the Neenah club dining room, the "spanferk" dinner will be served. The young pig is the gift of Charles Fitzpatrick, a local member, who offered it as a prize to the club providing a 100 per cent attendance could be secured at a certain meeting. The members won.

GEAR TEAM CLINGS TO LEAD IN DARTBALL

Neenah—The Gear Dairy dartball team of the National league will lead the league when the final match is played next Wednesday evening. Wednesday evening's matches resulted in the Gear team defeating the Eagles, Lewis Meats defeating Northwestern Electrotypes, and Baptists defeating the Post-office, and Baptists and Gear Dairy teams.

The standings of the teams has Gear Dairy winning 11 and losing 3, Eagles and Baptists tied for second place with each having 3 wins and 5 losses, Lewis Meats winning 7 and losing 7, Electrotypes winning 3 and losing 11 and the Postoffice having won 2 and lost 10 games.

OCOTON DEBATERS AT NEENAH THIS EVENING

Neenah—The Oconto state league affirmative debating team will come to Neenah Thursday evening to argue the chain store question with the Neenah negative team at the high school auditorium. The local negative team, coached by Miss Blanche Buck, is composed of Altha Coy, Gene Mathewson and John Cummings. The judges will be F. X. Greenough of Oshkosh, A. G. Osterhaus and Frank Younger of Appleton schools.

The Neenah affirmative team, coached by Marjorie Toppel, and composed of Elmer Oshkosh, Max Sile and Mildred J. Erdman, left Thursday noon for Sturgeon Bay where, in the evening, it will meet the negative team of that city.

LEASES STORE SPACE IN WINNEBAGO BUILDING

Neenah—Thomas J. Vermaulen of Appleton has leased the store building in the Winnebago building. He will operate a bakery. Mr. Vermaulen expects to open by March 1.

PATIENT STRIKES OUT AT DENTIST; RESULT: BROKEN RIB

Neenah—(P)—Dr. V. C. Kulnick, dentist, has a broken rib. A patient gave it to him. The other day he drilled on the patient's tooth. The drill gouged a soft spot. The patient yelled and struck out with his clenched fist, striking Dr. Kulnick in the chest. An X-ray photograph revealed a fractured rib.

HANSON BOWLS 615 IN COMMERCIAL LOOP

Rolls Games of 220, 149 and 254 to Set Pace in Weekly Matches

Neenah—B. Hanson rolled high single score and high series on 220, 149 and 254 for a 615 total Wednesday evening during the weekly matches in the Commercial bowling league at Neenah alleys. Herb Terhman was next with 191, 205 and 208 for a 604 total; C. Grunski had a 249 score and H. Neubauer a 245. Krause Clothes won the odd game from Kramer Meats, First National Banks won a pair from Mueller Ice Creams, Stannell Mechanics won two from Hardwood Products, Twin City Cleaners took a couple from Weiske Grocers and Chero Colas won the odd game from Draheim Sports.

ATTENDANCE GROWS AT YOUTH SERVICES

Parents and Teachers Show Keen Interest in Programs

Neenah—The Wednesday evening attendance at the Youth Week services at the Methodist church were large. Talks were given by Dr. John Alexander, the Rev. R. A. Waite, Preston Orwig and Miss Marie Shaver. Keen interest has been shown by parents and teachers and the Brigade group leaders who are sponsoring the program.

High school pupils heard the speakers Wednesday and Thursday mornings during the activity period, and will again hear them Friday morning. Kiwanis club members were addressed by Dr. Alexander Wednesday noon at its weekly meeting at the Valley Inn, and the Rotary club was addressed Thursday noon. Parents, teachers and Brigade leaders had a dinner Thursday noon at the Methodist church dining room.

The program for Thursday started at 4 o'clock in the afternoon with service for eighth grade group boys. A special worship service and inspirational addresses were given by the three speakers. In the evening Youth and Girl problems will be discussed by Dr. Alexander and Miss Shaver, followed by a worship service when Mr. Waite will talk on "This God I Sanctify Myself." At the Brigade group meetings Symmetrical and Youth Week Development will be discussed.

Friday will be devoted to a worship service, address to Freshmen members of the Brigade at 4 o'clock and a talk at the high school at 9:50. There will be no evening program.

Saturday will be devoted to conferences for young people, starting at 8:45 in the morning and continuing until 8:30 in the evening at First Presbyterian church auditorium.

NEENAH SOCIETY

Neenah—The third of the winter series of entertainments for Neenah club members and ladies will be held Thursday evening at the club room on G. W. Water-st. Neenah will be the entertainment feature. The committee in charge is Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Buck, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Arnsman, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Kuehl, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Sommers, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hilton, Mr. and Mrs. John Mayner, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Krueger, Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell and Dr. and Mrs. M. N. Pitt.

SCHOOL BANDS PLAN COURTESY CONCERTS

Neenah—Arrangements are being made by Neenah and Menasha high school band leaders for a series of courtesy concerts between the two schools. Lester Maas, director, will take the Neenah band to Menasha for a program before the student body there. L. Kraft, director of the Menasha band, will do the same thing at Neenah. Rehearsals for these concerts are being held. The dates have not yet been set.

GOSPEL SERVICES ARE OPENED AT NEENAH

Neenah—A series of gospel services to be conducted every night of the week with exception of Saturday and Monday nights, opened Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jackson, Second-st. The speakers were May Underwood and Alma Pearson, evangelists, who will be in charge of the meetings.

AUTHORITIES SEEK TO LOCATE JOHN STERNS

MAIL DISTRIBUTION ALSO HAMPERED AS EMPLOYEES FALL ILL

Menasha—If illness continues to increase among Menasha post office employees, distribution of mail will be considerably hampered within a few days, it appeared Thursday morning. Four men were unable to appear for work. W. H. Pierce, postmaster, L. J. Billinger, Jr. and George Schipfling were ill at their homes, and Robert Desjarlais was unable to work because of injuries sustained when he stepped on a nail Monday afternoon.

VISITORS PROHIBITED AT CITY POWER PLANT

Menasha—No visitors will be allowed at the municipal electric plant during the reconstruction of engine No. 3, according to Mayor N. G. Remmel.

"Since the engine company will not accept any liability for injuries to visitors at the municipal electric plant during the reconstruction of engine No. 3, all visitors and loiterers are hereby prohibited from visiting the plant between the hours of 7 o'clock in the morning to 5 o'clock in the afternoon of any day excepting Sundays," he said.

"Since the public liability insurance carried by the city does not cover such injuries, your cooperation in this matter is earnestly requested until the said engine is reconstructed."

PLAN STORY HOUR FOR CHILDREN AT LIBRARY

Menasha—A story hour for the entertainment of visitors at the new children's room in the Menasha public library, will be held at 2:15 every Saturday afternoon, according to library authorities. Miss Joan McGillan, library assistant, will be in charge.

The new children's room has met with unusual popularity since its opening a few weeks ago. More than 100 youngsters take advantage of facilities offered in the new quarters every day, during the school week and a marked increase is noted every Saturday. Although only mild discipline is enforced, the children are orderly and obedient in observance of rules. Library workers stated.

MENASHA THESPIANS TO ENTER SECTIONAL MEET

Menasha—Menasha high school has been grouped with Shawano and Oconto in the sectional dramatic contest under the auspices of the Wisconsin Forensic association. A win over Lomira high school in a preliminary contest at Menasha Thursday evening has entitled Menasha to a place in the sectional contest, from which a representative will attend the state meet at Madison.

Although the triangular contest will be staged within two weeks, neither the time nor place has been determined.

MILLIONAIRE LOST AT SEA BELIEVED SUICIDE

Cherbourg, France—(P)—James Cooper, Canadian millionaire who fell or jumped off from the liner Deutschland Sunday, in the opinion of the captain, pursuer and passengers, was a suicide.

Upon arrival of the ship here today they said that at the beginning of the voyage he seemed quite calm but later became agitated and distraught. He went to the promenade deck alone Sunday afternoon, and while no one saw him actually jump over the rail the engineer, looking from a lower porthole, saw him fall into the water.

He recognized the falling man as a passenger and immediately telephoned the bridge man that someone had fallen overboard. The captain ordered the ship to stop and had a lifeboat thrown out but Cooper had disappeared in the choppy sea.

Cooper, who was retired, amassed between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 in the liquor business, and once was a saloon keeper in Detroit. He had resided recently in Vevey.

president of the United States very much, so I hope you won't think me very bold to write such a great man as you are.

"I have got four brothers and part of them will vote for you anyway. If you will let your whistlers grow I will try and get the rest of them to vote for you. You would look a great deal better for your face is so thin. All the ladies like whiskers and they would tease their husbands to vote for you and then you would be president."

"As a result of this letter from the girl, Lincoln stopped at a field on a campaign train after the beard had been grown, and called for the little girl, lifted her up and kissed her, drawing her attention to the fact he had taken her advice," the governor said.

Lincoln kept the original of this letter throughout the Civil war. When he died it disappeared. Later it was obtained by George Dodero of Royal Oak, Mich., an attorney, from Mrs. Robert Lincoln of Manchester, Vt. Dodero was introduced to the governor's audience.

Biographers Criticized
New York—(P)—The trials and tribulations which beset Abraham Lincoln in life have their counterpart in the treatment he has received after death at the hands of his biographers.

Presented in the school histories as a kind gentleman, bowed in grief at the terrible sacrifices he was forced to call upon his countrymen to make, he has been called in biographies a playmate politician and worse.

Emanuel Hertz, New York author on Lincoln, celebrated the great emancipator's 122nd birthday today by calling attention to the "strange fatality that seems to be pursuing him so far as biographies are concerned."

Mr. Hertz owns more than 3,500 books and documents on the life of Lincoln—about 1,500 more than there are in the New York public library—and he has read every one of them, including the latest, Edgar Lee Masters' iconoclastic work.

Here's what Mr. Hertz says about Lincoln's principal biographers: "William H. Hendon—'Born out by the stress of the Civil war, he waited 23 years, during which time he was subject to drink and drugs, before he wrote his story of Lincoln. Intellectually, he never reached to Lincoln's knee. Any conclusions, he draws may be viewed with a great deal of skepticism.'"

Written By "Enemy"
Ward H. Lamon—"A good natured, rollicking country lawyer and marshal. Unable to write the biography himself, he hired Chauncey P. Black, the son of Jeremiah, of Buchanan's cabinet, to write it. Black hated Lincoln; hence, no matter how loyal Lamon was, the voice was the voice of Jacob, but the hands were the hands of Esau."

A. J. Beveridge—"His work is a fragment and written in the decline of his mental powers. He listened to the southern claque. It would not have surprised me if the hero of his four-volume book—if he had lived to finish it—would have been Douglas instead of Lincoln."

J. G. Nickolay and John Hay, Lincoln's secretaries—"They produced a wilderness of facts about the Civil war, with a little of Lincoln thrown in here and there, with a great many of his phrases neglected. But it is the best to this day."

W. E. Barton—"He was more interested in Lincoln's English forebears, in his Virginia relatives, than in his great adventure—the administration."

Mr. Hertz credits Ida M. Tarbell with "a splendid popular book," and Carl Sandburg with "by all odds the best book from

MORE FARMERS SHOW APPROVAL OF COOPERATIVE

Milk Producers See Solution of Difficulties in Bar- gaining Power

BY W. F. WINSEY

Twelve farmers — One hundred farmers, assembled here Wednesday afternoon, decided to proceed with organization of a branch of the Pure Milk Producers' Cooperative in the Appleton milk producing area for the weighing, testing and marketing of milk. The twelve farmers, meeting was the fifth of a series of thirteen scheduled for the same area this week. The attendance at the meetings held thus far has averaged about 125 dairymen. The wide spread between the prices that farmers are getting for their milk and the price the consumer is paying is the strongest inducement presented to farmers to change from individual to collective marketing, according to their statements. In the Appleton area the farmers are getting three cents a quart for their milk and the consumer is paying ten cents a quart. This wide spread in prices also prevails in the prices of canned milk, it is pointed out.

Another strong incentive for farmers to do their milk marketing collectively in the future is, according to the farmers themselves, that the farmers who supply milk to all the cities of Wisconsin except in the Fox River Valley are organized into marketing groups. As a direct result they have been getting $2.90 per hundred pounds for their milk, while the farmers who are supplying milk to Fox River Valley cities have been getting from $1.37 to $1.50 per hundred pounds. The latter prices are the same as condensation prices, it is said.

Want Bargaining Power

A third incentive is that producers supplying milk to the 90 condensaries in Wisconsin are marketing individually and have had absolutely no bargaining power.

While these patrons of condensaries are getting about $1.20 per hundred pounds for milk, the whole sale, catalog price of condensed milk is proportionately much higher, according to the farmers.

The speakers at the Twelve Corners' meeting were County Agent G. A. Sell, W. L. Witte, president of the Madison Milk Producers' association and representative of the state department of markets, Frank Reimer, Greenville, chairman of the milk producers organization committee, Walter H. Wieckert, Appleton, Edward Hardy, and Leo Defending, chairman of the local committee.

To show the relative importance of the milk plant at New London to the business men and entire community and the 400 farmers who are delivering their milk to that plant, Mr. Witte said that the plant of the 400 farmers are worth $4,000,000 approximately. If the Jordan plant were closed down the people in and about New London would in a few years forget that the plant ever existed, he declared. But drive the 400 farmers from their farms by low prices for their milk and New London could not survive the ordeal. Under the present prices of milk it is impossible for farmers to pay their interest, taxes and mortgages on their farms. Their outlook will be more promising, however, when they take in bargaining on milk prices and get a fairer division of the milk consumer's dollar, agricultural leaders contend.

Similar Situation

The situation is the same in the Appleton milk producing area except that the investment in milk plants is approximately $500,000, and the number of milk producers is 1,200 with a farm investment of approximately $120,000,000. Wipe the Appleton farmers out by collective pricing on their chief farm product and grass would spring up in the streets of Appleton, the farmers maintain.

Mr. Witte says that the remedy for low prices paid to farmers for their milk may be found in the collective bargaining of milk producers and he is advising farmers about Appleton to organize a branch of the Pure Milk Producers' Cooperative.

Wisconsin Woman, Who Was Nurse During Civil War, Tells Human Side Of Abe Lincoln's Life

BY BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Writer

Sheboygan — A very old lady reached back in her memories today so that she could share with her fellow-citizens the series of pictures and reminiscences of Abraham Lincoln that she always carries with her.

She is Mrs. Helen Brainard Cole, one of the 45 Civil War nurses still on the U. S. Pension Bureau rolls. She is 92 now, and she was an army nurse in Washington during the dark days of the war; and for a time she stayed in the White House as nurse to little "Tad" Lincoln when the child was sick. She was present at the funeral of Lincoln's other son, Willie, who died in the White House.

Her acquaintance with President Lincoln began soon after she entered the nursing corps.

Under Age

"The age limit for army nurses then was 30 years, and I was younger than that," she explained. "But I had been secretary to Miss Dorothy Dix, who was in charge of the army nurses, for a year and a half, and at last she thought she could trust me to be a good nurse."

"I was assigned to a hospital at the foot of Seventh street in Washington near the Soldiers' Home, where Mr. Lincoln stayed during the hot months. He'd go by every morning on his horse—his long legs dangling below the stirrups, and his tall hat, full of papers, tilted on the back of his head."

"Often I'd be waiting in front of the hospital, to go and get things for the soldiers. He'd greet me: 'Good morning, Mrs. Cole—and how are all the soldier boys? Take good care of them.'"

Culinary Expert

"We had an enormous kitchen there, with a long zinc table running down the middle, and 36 soldiers working in it helping us get the meals. Mr. Lincoln and some of his cabinet members used to drop in, and Mr. Lincoln would look at the food and say he was pleased that the boys were getting such good things to eat."

"I remember one fall the surgeon told us that we could prepare a regular Thanksgiving dinner for all soldiers that were on a full diet. So I got all the nurses that could be spared and set them to making pies. I wish you could have seen all those pretty girls, dressed in white, with their sleeves rolled up, making pies! 'Well, Mr. Lincoln dropped in and watched us, and finally he began to help us, taking the pies and putting them in the oven for us.'"

"Another time some friend had sent us four bushels of strawberries, and we were making strawberry shortcake. Mr. Lincoln came in just as we were dishing it up. He stood in the door, watching, and I could see that he wanted some. So I motioned to one of the boys, and he gave Mr. Lincoln a big plateful. 'There weren't any chairs, so Mr. Lincoln just sat down on the floor, in a corner, and ate his shortcake.'"

"That was the way he always was to us; simple and natural and unaffected. We never thought anything of his dropping in."

"He always suffered intensely for the soldiers. I remember after the Wilderness, we had a number of cases of lockjaw. Once I was by the bed of one lad who had lockjaw, and I was feeding him orange juice. Mr. Lincoln came in and stood there, with tears streaming down his cheeks. At last he said, 'My poor boy, I do wish I could help you.'"

Goes to White House

Mrs. Cole went to the White House to act as nurse for Tad shortly after the Lincoln's smaller son, Willie, had died. Tad was ill of the same ailment, and his parents were suffering deeply for him.

"Tad had an impediment in his speech," she said, "and we couldn't always understand what he was saying. So, Mr. Lincoln would interpret for him. The president would spend hours by Tad's bedside—he used to come in with a big sheet of official papers and sit by Tad's bed, going over the papers while the little boy looked on.

"And then Mrs. Lincoln used to come in; and I want to say right here she was a very lovable and lovely woman, highly educated, faultless in her dress—and there never was any friction between her and Mr. Lincoln."

"Often, when Mr. Lincoln was at Tad's bedside, she'd come in and take off Mr. Lincoln's necktie for him, or pull off his shoes and put his slippers on for him. When he was working late in his office, she'd often carry a tray of food in to him, and sit and eat with him."

"Mr. Lincoln was devoted to his family. I remember him at Willie's funeral, sitting there, erect, with tears streaming down his cheeks. He had on a pair of black kid gloves, I remember, that were too big for him."

"The last time I saw Tad was some months after the war ended. It was in Boston, where there was some kind of an exposition or fair, and Mrs. Lincoln and her children were there. I found Tad sitting on the steps of a booth, crying as if his little heart would break."

"I asked him, 'Why what's the matter, Tad?'"

"I want my pa," he wailed. Then he said: 'You know, if my pa was living, he'd forgive the man who shot him.'"

Recalls Pictures

A great series of pictures of Lincoln is stamped on Mrs. Cole's memory.

"At breakfast in the White House, when it looked as if Washington might have to be evacuated," she said, "young John Hay (Lincoln's secretary) would come in with reports from the War Department, telling of the retreat of the Union army. Mr. Lincoln would be unable to eat. He'd just sit there, with his head in his hand."

"I often used to see him at midnight, too, in those days. I'd be going from one hospital to another, and I'd see him walking over to the War Department from the White House, bare-headed and bent way over."

Mrs. Cole's memory of Lincoln is the only thing that she cherishes more than her memories of "the boys" in the hospital.

"When I think of those boys," she said, "She paused and shook her head slowly. I can remember when the surgeons stood at the operating tables for 35 hours straight. We had no anesthetics then—there was nothing we could give the wounded to deaden the pain except a little brandy or whisky. You can imagine what it was like, especially when the doctors amputated. But I never heard one of the boys say he was sorry he had come."

Lincoln's Death

Another sharp picture in her memory is the remembrance of the

How to Escape FLU

- Avoid so far as possible the places where flu germs are most likely to be spread; overcrowded cars and public meeting places; overheated, stuffy rooms.
- Be careful of close contact with others and beware of all coughers and sneezers; breathe through the nose, get fresh air, but avoid drafts or chilling.
- Get lots of rest. Eat plenty of citrus fruits. Keep the bowels open. Take extra precaution to keep in good physical condition, so your system will have high resistance against germs.
- Above all, avoid catching colds. They lower your resistance to the flu germ. Ward them off. At the first sign of any cold, take Bayer Aspirin and remain indoors if possible until your cold is gone. If you have a sore throat, dissolve some Bayer Aspirin tablets in water and gargle; this will relieve the soreness and reduce the inflammation.
- If you have any reason to suspect even a touch of flu, call your doctor at once.

PLAN FORMAL OPENING OF MEN'S DEPARTMENT

The formal opening of the new men's furnishing department of the Green Dry Goods store at 122 E. College-ave will be held Saturday, according to Chris Mullen, manager.

The new men's department will be located at the front of the store on the main floor in the space formerly occupied by the art goods department.

New electric light fixtures have been installed and other improvements made. Both men and women sales people will work in the department.

Itching Stops Instantly--Piles Soothed, Healed

The itching, burning and bleeding of piles is most embarrassing—allowed to continue they cause worry, nervousness and in some cases—the knife.

So just get after those sore, painful piles today with Peterson's Ointment. The minute this powerful healing and soothing Ointment is applied, itching and burning stops, the inflamed parts are soothed and start right in to heal—the mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment cures piles to vanish in a few days.

Cleveland Bruner of Maxton, N. C., writes: "I had a severe case of piles and will truthfully say after trying everything without getting any help—Peterson's Ointment gave me freedom and banished my piles."

Peterson's Ointment cures piles and a 3¢ box will prove it—25¢ and 50¢ sizes.

Oshkosh And Appleton Battle For Valley Conference Cage Title

ORANGE LOST FIRST GAME BY 20 TO 14 SCORE

Record Crowd Expected When Two Leaders Clash at Armory

A basketball game that probably will settle the Fox river valley conference cage races will be staged Friday evening at Armory G, when Appleton and Oshkosh high schools clash. Both teams have lost but one game in conference competition, although the Sawdust city quintet has played one more game than the Orange.

Three weeks ago the squads clashed at Oshkosh and the Sawdust city boys won by a score of 20 and 14. Previous to that the Orange had been defeated. Oshkosh's one defeat came in the hands of Sheboygan earlier in the season.

Should Appleton beat Oshkosh tomorrow night the Orange probably will win the pennant for it meets West Green Bay, Manitowoc, Marinette and Sheboygan in following games and has defeated each.

Oshkosh, if it wins, will still have a battle on its hands for it meets the strong Fond du Lac team and Sheboygan. The latter squad is the one that stopped the Nussbaum coached quintet.

Oshkosh Has Height Coach Nussbaum's squad boasts four or five big, rangy boys and that enables him to put on the floor a team that can win by ordinary use of its height. And against a squad with only two tall men, height certainly counts for plenty.

Seibold, a big, rangy forward is one of Oshkosh's best bets as is McDonald who also plays center and often performs at forward. McDonald is a clever handler. He can shoot and handle himself well. His running mate is Wegner another heavy scorer.

At guard positions there are Barlow and Stuegauer, the former replacing the veteran Garbe who graduated at the end of the semester. Barlow is a more or less wild player or was as a forward, and his worth is questionable. Stuegauer is not the veteran that Barlow is but he showed he knows his basketball in the first Orange-Appleton game.

Couch Joseph Shiede finished workouts with his cagers tonight, the boys getting in a few minutes at the high school gym. The Orange has been handicapped in not having use of the armory every evening this week but probably will get along.

Priebe, Rule Forwards Forward positions will be filled by Priebe and Rule, the two youngsters who performed quite well at Sheboygan. Collins, a veteran also will be available for duty. At center Bill Peotter has the inside track while Mortell and Verrier, the two football captains, will hold down the guard positions.

Offensively the Orange hasn't been hitting so well, but defensively it rates with Sheboygan, the league leader. Mortell manages to get the ball off the back board but will need a lot of help against the ranger Oshkosh team. Verrier can take care of the shorter Sawdust city players but will have some tall hustling to stop the big boys.

The first game on the evening's program will begin at 7:15 when the second teams representing the two schools take the floor. Appleton lost at Oshkosh by a lone point in the first meeting. The big game goes on at the head of about 8:15.

Plans planning to see the game should get to the armory early for high school officials expect another sell out.

CANADIAN SKATER LEADS SPEED RACERS

Ross Robinson Has 50 Points to Credit After Winning 5 Mile

Saranac Lake, N. Y. (AP)—Ross Robinson of Toronto, holder of the Canadian national title, appeared well on the way toward victory in the North American Amateur Speed Skating championship today as the competitors moved on from Saranac Lake to Lake Placid for the last two days of competition.

Winning the five mile race in 14:31.25, close to record time, Robinson increased his total to 50 points for two days of skating. Ray Murray of New York, who did not place in yesterday's only senior championship event, was second with 49. O'Neil Farrell of Chicago finished third in the five mile to get third place in the totals with 30 points.

Younger skaters outshine the seniors yesterday with two new records to their credit. Orel Duffy, juvenile competitor from Toronto, made his second world mark in two days by skating 220 yards in 22.15 seconds. Eddie Stunell of Chicago, leader of the intermediate division, set a new world's record of 1:29.24 for the intermediate half mile.

WEST AND KOSITZKE FIGHT AT FOND DU LAC

Two Appleton amateur fighters are on the Friday program being sponsored by the Knights of Columbus at Fond du Lac. Art West, an end and coming 135 pounder with a real wallop, is scheduled to meet Art Imhoff in the fourth bout of the evening. Clarence Kositzke draws the curtain roller and will meet Phil Gorn. The latter fights at 145 pounds. West at 135.

SEE RECORD CROWD AT AMATEUR FIGHTS

Four Valley Cities Sending Large Delegations Here Tonight

THE CARD Thursday, Feb. 12

Hans Ahl, Oshkosh vs. Tony Delato, Chicago, at 140 pounds.

Herb Thompson, New London, vs. Clarence Miller, Chicago, at 133 pounds.

Zep Taurig, Manitowoc, vs. Tony Pernice, Chicago, at 122 pounds.

Claude Sackett, New London, vs. Bob Groshek, Chicago, at 156 pounds.

Norbert LeFebvre, Green Bay, vs. Ted Barry, Chicago, at 130 pounds.

Don Delair, Green Bay, vs. Walter Blaine, Chicago, at 123 pounds.

Standing and sitting room at the Armory will be a premium tonight when the first long sounds for the amateur fight card being sponsored by Oney Johnston post of the American Legion. Unusual interest has been shown in tonight's card and a record crowd will be on hand if early seat sales can be taken as a criterion.

The evening's first bout will go on at 8:30, according to legion officials and fans are asked to be in their seats at that time. To have the house filled early gives the fans in the back rows a chance to see all the fighting rather than just parts of the first two bouts.

New London, Oshkosh, Green Bay and Manitowoc are expected to be well represented. Valley boys on the card are from the four cities and as their opponents are rated Golden Gloves contestants, the home folks are very much interested in the local talent.

Offensively the Orange hasn't been hitting so well, but defensively it rates with Sheboygan, the league leader. Mortell manages to get the ball off the back board but will need a lot of help against the ranger Oshkosh team. Verrier can take care of the shorter Sawdust city players but will have some tall hustling to stop the big boys.

Sammy Ornstein May Not Play Basketball But He Can Manage The Winners

Coaches Special to Title in Older Boy Basketball League

SAMMY Ornstein is the king of the walk around the Y. M. C. A., and if you listen to this tale you'll probably agree that Sammy has a good right to strut his stuff and his best skill.

Last year an Older Boy basketball league was organized at the Y. M. C. A. and Sammy was instrumental in starting the Wolverine team. He managed the quintet to a league title, no mean feat when all the contact you've ever had with the sport is watching the game.

This winter when league play started the Wolverines forgot all about Sammy. But Sammy didn't forget about the league and he organized another team which some one dubbed the S. O. S. team, Sam Ornstein's Specials.

The squad appeared to most everyone else as made up of the cast-offs of other teams and it was destined to end up on the bottom of the heap. The team won its first couple games and everyone said it was lucky. It took one trimming and then returned to winning ways and galloped out in front until Monday it was tied with the Delta Hi-Y team for top honors.

Then came the play off Tuesday evening and Sam's team won, 13 and 8 and again Sammy is the best manager—the all-conference manager, if you please—in the league.

Crowd Sess Game With a crowd of something like 200 persons on hand, many of the spectators being Sammy's fair friends (at least that's what they say around the Y. M. C. A.), the championship game got under way about 8:30 Tuesday night. Two preliminary games preceded it so that the big game had a suspenseful beginning in keeping with such exciting occasions.

The Delas started the scoring when Jorgensen counted but when Sanders dropped a free throw and Ebert a "steep" shot, the Specials were in front and never trailed thereafter. The score at half time was 5 and 4 for the Specials.

In the third quarter the Delas threatened and pushed the count to 10 and 7. Here Rehfeldt made a free throw and Ebert a basket and the game ended 12 and 8 for the Specials. Jorgensen of the Delas was ousted on personals in the last two minutes of play, Clapp going to guard and Gmeiner to forward.

The second game of the evening found the Theta Hi-Y team trouncing the Vocals, 12 and 4. The count or, it will mean much more to him than just being unable to play basketball. And that is not impossible for the only other sport in which the youngster competed was football.

Here's a tip to high school coaches who tote their basketball teams around the country in cars. Oconto Falls cagers returned home Monday after a weary weekend in which they played basketball and hitch-hiked rides, slept in police stations and what not. The quintet went to Oshkosh and Ripon last weekend for games. On the way home from Ripon Sunday the men's car, driven by one of the players refused to go about the time it neared Oshkosh. With funds running low the boys split up and hit the highway. Some reached Kaukauna and spent the night with friends and others slept in the Menasha police station after being chased out of a railroad depot. All were accounted for Monday afternoon.

Talk about competing in sports for the fun of it—take the University of Wisconsin hockey team. During the last year, in an effort to continue the sport within limits of the budget, set for it, the Badger rubber chasers have had to take care of their own rink. And because the weather has been unusually warm and the ice melted often it has needed plenty of attention.

That left the Badger players with much to do and on more than one occasion they have worked to late hours spraying the enclosure. The team also has gotten out of bed bright and early on several mornings to practice at 7 o'clock before the noonday sun melted the ice.

Irv Wenzlaff, the big fellow from Fond du Lac, who umpired valley league baseball games last year and who doped pop bottles on a couple occasions at Little Chute, or was it Kimberly, has quit the Valley league and gone to the Mississippi league.

Remember Eddie Stumpf of the old State league days when the loop consisted of valley baseball teams. Well, Eddie still is backstopping and managing and has been under fire in the last short league because his Union Citys are something like a bird without a country and haven't a ball park.

But Eddie says his team is the original Yagabond ball club and that a traveling team is a good thing for a league because it permits the teams drawing good home crowds to play more home games. Eddie also shows that if he wants to find a ball team and an "angel" to contribute $1,500 that he figures he'll lose this summer, then he should be permitted to remain in the loop and continue travels.

A committee has been named by the state league to decide whether Eddie is right or all wrong.

WEDNESDAY'S RESULTS

Power Co., 40, Kloehns 19.

WISCONSIN MICHIGAN POWER COMPANY BASKETBALL TEAM WON ANOTHER GAME IN THE INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE AT THE Y. M. C. A. LAST NIGHT WHEN IT DEFEATED THE KLOEHNS, 40 TO 19.

The conquers of the United Cigars last week failed to stop the Powers and with every player on the winning team except Hillman featuring in the scoring there was no stopping the squad.

The other game last night saw the United Cigars get back in the running at the expense of the Co. D team. The score in this game was 31 and 14 for the Stogies.

In the Guards-Cigar game, the former team was lost during the entire first half and when it found itself the Cigars were so far out in front there was no chance to overhaul them. The count at the end of the first half was 13 to 2 for the Cigars. Bauer's basket being the only one credited the Guards. R. Reetz was the scoring ace for the Cigars with six field goals and a gift shot.

The Power company assault on the Kloehns was terrible to behold. With Jerry Slavic doing the gunning in the first half, the Powers stepped out and had a 19 and 5 lead at the half way mark. In the second half Ray Connell hit the hoop for four field goals before ousted on personals and with Notebaert and Slavic getting two each, the team coasted to an easy victory.

CARROLL QUINTET BOASTS TWO STARS

Hinckley and Vander Muhlen Again With Pioneer Cage Squad

Two of the greatest basketball players ever to step onto a Lawrence college court will visit Appleton when Carroll college Pioneers show against the Lawrence college Vikings at Alexander gymnasium Saturday night. The two cagers are Hinckley and Vander Muhlen, forward and center, respectively on the Pioneer quintet.

Fans who last year saw Lawrence and Carroll play will remember the work of the two boys. Hinckley, who is captain of the team this year is a dead shot from almost any place on the floor and seven or eight field goals is a mere nothing in one night's work.

"Stretch" Vander Muhlen is a gawky, awkward blonde who is anything except awkward when he starts tossing the oval from near the free throw mark. He has been known to cage as many as 12 field goals in one night and "think nothing of it."

There are other chips on this Carroll team which has lost but two games this season and none in the Big Four conference, and they're all mighty good ball players. Their greatest feat was a 61 to something score again Ripon several weeks ago.

When they meet Lawrence Saturday night it will be the second meeting of the two clubs. The Vikings and Pioneers first clashed at Carroll and of course Carroll won although not by a great margin. Coach Denney expects to do much better in the second game and if history repeats and the game is anything like the second one last year at Waushara, a great exhibition will be put on by both teams.

Mount Vernon, Iowa—Results of the Midwest conference basketball games last weekend practically assured the Carleton team of another Midwest title. Lawrence met defeat at the hands of the fast Monmouth five to drop out of the tie for first place into a tie with Cornell for second.

The Lawrence team found Monmouth more than its equal and lost the first of two games for the week, 30 to 23. On Saturday the Vikings defeated Knob by the close 21 to 20 score. One of the most hotly contested and one filled with rivalry was the Coe-Cornell fracas which the Purple succeeded in pulling out of the fire in the last half for a 35 to 32 victory and the right to remain in second place. Ripon defeated Beloit in the only other conference game, 30 to 23.

Monmouth handed Knob, the latter's first one point defeat of the week when the two met in a contest which does not figure in the standing and Monmouth won 22 to 21. Grinnell defeated Coe 32 to 23 and Carleton trounced Hamline 56 to 22 in another non-conference game.

Beloit goes on the road this week to meet Coe and Cornell, while Ripon plays Carleton at Northfield in the only other Midwest encounter.

FORT ATKINSON ICE MEET IS POSTPONED

Poor Ice Forces State Hockey Association to Call Off Tournery

Appleton Blue Streaks who were packing their extra socks and shirts preparatory to leaving late Friday for Fort Atkinson and the state amateur hockey tournament will have to postpone the event one week. Ice conditions at the Fort forced postponement of the tourney to Feb. 20-22 it was announced Thursday morning.

The week's postponement probably will give the boys a chance to get in another practice game for the local rink and dig up some more expense money. Solicitations for money have been successful, according to Manager John Koch and two more Appleton business houses added to the fund Wednesday. They were the J. J. Plank Company and the New State Lunch.

When the Streaks invade Fort Atkinson next week they will seek more than the state hockey title—they also will bid for the 1932 tournament. If the meet is brought here efforts will be made to stage a big winter sport carnival with the hockey games the feature attractions.

HILLTOP HOCKEY TEAM BEATS U. W.

Slush Ice and Water Slow Up Game but Marquette Wins, 1-0

Milwaukee (AP)—Playing on slushy ice, Marquette University last night avenged the recent hockey defeat at the hands of the University of Wisconsin, by winning 1 to 0 from the Badgers.

A large water hazard near mid-rink and generally poor ice slowed the game until the final period, when Wisconsin played in close to the Hilltop goal and threatened repeatedly.

Goalie Schultz made more stops in the last frame than in all the rest of the game. He was credited with a total of 13 stops, while Goalie Frisch, of Wisconsin, held off 15 possible Marquette points.

Frisch, however, was surprised by the unassisted blow from midfield of McCann, Marquette's right defense after three minutes had elapsed in the second period. The second and third periods were shortened five minutes to allow Wisconsin to make a train.

Hear Ye! Hear Ye! The Great Arthur Shires Is To Honor Our Fair City

Will Show at Armory Tuesday Night With Milwaukee Badgers

THE Prince of Wales is coming to Appleton—not the prince from merrie old England, nay, not so mere an individual, but the Prince of Wales from the Milwaukee Brewers, none other than Arthur "The Great" Shires himself in person, in the flesh, et cetera.

It was just a few weeks back that Louis Nahn who directs the destinies of the Brews in this day and age, was greatly impressed by the fact the Milwaukee team had not made any money in several seasons. Says he: "Now if I could only get together a couple four or five players that look good and have a great Prince of Peace go forth and sell my team before the season opened, I soon should have the shekels poured into this old coffe before mine eyes and enjoy the cheering from up and yonder stands. A Prince of Wales, like in merrie England—that's what I need."

So Mr. Nahn stepped without the portals of the ancient castle on Eighth and Chambers on Milwaukee's north side (or maybe he took the elevator to the top of the Majestic-bldg where the Brewer offices are located) and peered over the great Lake Michigan toward the eastern horizon. And there he saw galloping forth in a big, gayly painted coupe "Whitman" Shires of the Washington Senators.

"There's my Prince of Wales," Louis shouted and he proceeded to get in touch with Clark Griffith, the great one's boss and purchased his contract.

Now as you recall, the Great One was galloping forth when we last saw him. Verily so, and to the western shores of this great country he went, and into the movies to thrill fair maidens' hearts. But the Great One became a villain in the movies, and also a villain in the hearts of the maidens for he took unto himself a wife.

When word reached the Great One that Milwaukee had purchased him, he again galloped forth and like Sir Lochnivar came out of the west and into Milwaukee where he gallantly fixed his name to a contract without so much as a quibble.

"Sir Arthur," quote Louis of the House of Nahn, "my offers run low and my ball club needs much publicity so when the season opens in April, the shekels shall pour forth as from a fountain. Canst think of anything that would sell the old ball club and help lift the mortgage on yon mansion?"

All was quiet for almost a full minute when Louis bounded from his chair and shouted "I have it, I have it," and Arthur added, "I don't know what it is but who can have something the Great Shires hasn't?"

"The Prince of Wales from merrie old England now is making a good will tour of the world. Why not have the Great Sir Arthur make a good will tour of Wisconsin, sell ye old ball club and lift the mortgage on the old homestead?"

VETERAN BASEBALL HUMORIST IS DEAD; NAMED MANY STARS

Charles Dryden Was Man Who Called Chi Sox of 1909 "Hitless Wonders"

BY CHARLES W. DUNKLEY Associated Press Sports Writer CHICAGO (AP)—Charles Dryden, first and perhaps the greatest of all baseball humorists, is dead.

The man who originated nearly all the expressions used in writing baseball today, passed on yesterday in his modest little cottage in Ocean Springs, Miss., after being a hopeless paralytic for ten years. He was about 71 years old.

Dryden, who worked on Chicago, San Francisco and New York papers, up until about fifteen years ago, became famous for the unique manner in which he reported baseball games. He always built his stories around an incident which struck him as humorous. He was nationally recognized as one who could pick a nickname for a baseball player and make it stick, and make baseball players like him. He was the first to call Frank Chance, late manager of the famous Cub team of 1906, the "Peerless Leader." He was the first to call a baseball park a "ball yard." He hung the name "Big Moose" on Ed Walsh, the famous White Sox pitcher, and once wrote of Walsh as "the only man in the world who could strut standing still."

Regarded Game As Joke Dryden regarded baseball as a huge joke, and always wrote humorously of the games. While employed in New York 25 or 30 years ago he followed this up with the offer of a statement to prove impropriety of the transactions.

Dryden became a writer through no desire of his own. He was an iron moulder in Monmouth, Ill., and while working in a foundry wrote amusing incidents that came to his mind. A friend, reading some of Dryden's sketches advised him to quit the iron moulding business and become an author. Dryden wrote several humorous books, one of which was entitled "On and Off the Bread Wagon." It was a story of his own personal experiences. Later he wrote a story of the sea, after he had been shanghaied off the docks of San Francisco, and forced on a trip around the world.

When Dryden decided to become a writer he went to San Francisco. He hung around a newspaper office and when a big fire broke out and there being no regular reporters available, Dryden was assigned to the job. He wrote an amusing story about a fire, neglecting to mention that several firemen had been killed but the story made such a hit with the editors that Dryden was given a permanent job.

Wrote In Longhand Dryden was one of the unique characters of the newspaper world. Until a few years, before illness forced him into retirement, he always wrote his copy in longhand. Then when he decided to use the typewriter, he laboriously began to peck out his story with two fingers. When he finished his story he would throw it over to the sports editor saying, "Here's another piece about those silly eggs."

Dryden hung the name of "The Old Roman" on Charles A. Comiskey, 73-year-old owner of the White Sox. He called the White Sox of 1906 who won a championship under Fielder Jones, the "Hitless Wonders" because of their ability to win all ball games without making hits. The famous play in which Fred Merkle, first baseman of the New York Giants of 1907 failed to touch second base in the deciding game of the regular season inspired Dryden to refer to Merkle as "Bonehead" and the name stuck until Merkle passed out of baseball history.

Dryden never married and died in the arms of his faithful sister who had cared for him for years.

BADGER GUNNER TIED FOR THIRD AT MEET

Kansas City, Mo.—(AP)—Fred Ludington, Wauwatosa, tied for third with Frank Troeh, Portland, Ore., in the twenty-seventh annual interstate trap shoot yesterday. Gus Payne, Oklahoma City, scored 94 to win. Dr. O. H. Nix, Oshkosh, tied for first with J. A. Welden, Superior, Neb., in the "C" class target cup shoot. They had scores of 57.

Tommy Loughran Will Show Against Campolo

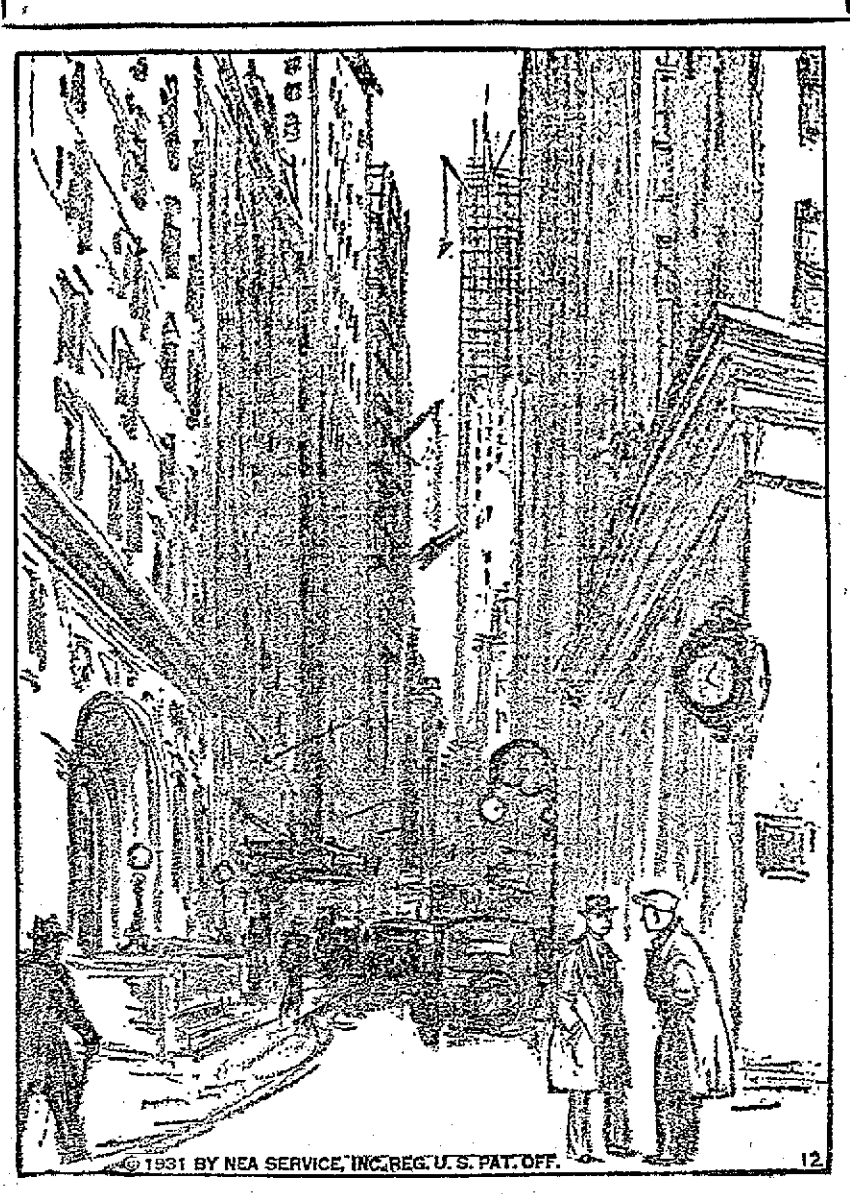

BY WILBUR WOOD Copyright, 1931.

NEW YORK (CPA)—With sock market business at the lowest ebb in years it would seem to be a simple matter to round up a suitable opponent for a Madison Square Garden match with Tommy Loughran, who moved himself back into the ring row by his scintillating victory over Max Baer.

Yet, after canvassing the field, matchmaker Tom McArdle is extending his tentacles into South America in an effort to find a foe for Loughran. A cablegram to Victoriano Campolo offering the Argentinean boxer a match with Tommy brought a favorable reply today and the fight was carded for April 7 at the garden.

Jack Sharkey has shown no interest in a return bout with the Philadelphia, not even to the extent of suggesting that Tommy meet Jack's understudy, Ernie Schaef. Tuffy Griffiths turned down an offer with the remark that he ex-

Moore Boys Should Form Own Club

Chicago (AP)—The more Moores able to stick with major league baseball clubs next season, the more moaning by baseball writers.

Seven Moores are under contract, and that's not the worst of it—three of them are James Moore. They are pitcher James Stanford Moore of the Chicago White Sox; outfielder James William Moore of the Athletics and outfielder James Gregg Moore of the New York Giants.

More Moores are: Pitcher Wilsey William Moore, Boston Red Sox; pitcher William Austin Moore, Brooklyn; outfielder Randolph Moore, Boston Braves and outfielder John Moore of the Cubs.

If the White Sox had hung on to their Moores, they would have James William and Randolph, in addition to James Stanford, the two former having worked for Charles Comiskey at one time or another.

The Moores themselves may become apprehensive at the possibility of confusion in the official averages—so it doesn't look as though any more Moores will make it merrier.

Yard	871	934	849 2654

V. Schmidt led the Office team of the Interlake league in its three game win over the Digester quintet with a 155, 158, 156—539 last night on Elk alleys. B. Kositzke's 443 total was next highest, his scores being 167, 126 and 155. For the Digesters M. Tavilian had a 511 series, 132, 155, 174. J. Bleier's 439 was next, the total coming from games of 147, 161, 155.

The Electricians helped the Machines cop three straight games by failing to produce more than three members of their team. However, Smith of the Electricians copped all the scoring honors with a 132, 170, 183 for a 535 series. C. Eggert's 194 in the Machines' total was high game for the evening, and his 493 series high for his quintet.

Despite some heavy kegging by Leich of the Yard team that brought games of 172, 122, 142—506, his team lost two out of three to the Construction quintet. Thygesen's 107, 133, 132—343 caused most of the trouble for the Construction team rolled enough 490 series to cop easily. Leische's series and 193 for a single game copped all the high scoring honors.

Loughran is in rather an awkward position. He is too good to make a match between him and one of the run-of-the-mine heavyweights attractive, while Schmeling, Sharkey, Striffling and Carnera, the top four, are unavailable for one reason or another.

Campolo seems to be the logical man for the job. The Argentinean would receive a lot of support in a fifteen-round match. Victoria is a demon with a right to the heart. Tommy might escape that punch for ten rounds, but over the longer route Campolo might tag him.

NEW LISBON MAN GETS CONTRACT FOR SCHOOL JOB

Bid of W. H. Farley of $177,098 Accepted by Board of Education

New London—W. H. Farley New Lisbon, Wis., with a bid of $177,098, was awarded the general contract for the exterior construction work on the new high school building to be erected on land located on Dickinson and W. Washington sts. The award was made Wednesday evening at the city hall by the board of education after a week's deliberation. Awards for the main construction work, heating, plumbing, and hidden electrical installations were made in divided form.

The contract for heating and plumbing amounting to $36,749 was awarded to J. E. Robertson company of Wauwatosa. The divided bids on these items were $17,889 for the first portion, and $18,860 for the second. Prinow Electric Co. of this city received the contract for all electrical installations, the first item being for $6,726 while the second is for $2,440.

One undivided bid of $4,566 was awarded to the Art Mosaic Tile Co., Inc. of Green Bay. This will cover all tarrazzo, tile and marble work. The total of the first portions, which covers work by Feb. 1, 1932, amounts to $154,668. This added to the second division of $22,428 amounts to $177,096, which is the estimated cost of the completed building.

According to the contracts the building will be erected and enclosed, with all heating, plumbing and electrical pipes and wiring complete, at a figure estimated at $154,668. This added to the second division of $22,428 amounts to $177,096, which is the estimated cost of the completed building.

The next procedure will be the signing of contracts and furnishing of satisfactory bonds. Ground will be broken as soon as frost leaves the grounds.

At the meeting of the board and the council it was stated that all the elements of responsibility necessary have been entered into thoroughly. Mayor Wendlandt, in reply to a query by Bert Ingerson, head of the local labor union, stated that the board of education had made sure that the contractor, W. H. Farley, will employ local labor wherever possible.

FARMERS CONSIGN 33 PUREBRED HOGS TO CHILTON SALE

Contemplate Feeding Milk to Swin Because of Low Prices

Chilton—The members of the Calumet-co Swine Breeders' association met Monday evening at the Great Northern hotel to complete arrangements for the second sale, to be held Saturday.

The 33 head of purebred hogs consigned to the sale were reported to be in excellent conditions and the members were all looking forward to a good sale in spite of the low value in other lines of farm products.

With the continued lowering of milk prices and the usual spring drop due to the coming of green grass, not so far in the future, many farmers are planning on separating their milk and purchasing hogs, figuring that with the present prices of feed and milk it will be more profitable to skim the milk and feed hogs than to sell the milk whole.

The sale will be held in the Knaut and Tesch warehouse and the barns of the Great Northern hotel. The barn will be heated and lighted so that all visitors and buyers can examine the hogs and attend the sale with all the conveniences of a modern sale pavilion.

Purebred Chester Whites, Berkshires, Duroc Jerseys and Poland Chinas will be sold at this sale. Practically all of these hogs come from herds that have made commendable records in the showings of local fairs and the State fair.

R. A. Manderscheid from Malone and Henry Heilmann from Chilton attended the state sale at Madison during Farmers' week. They reported a very active demand for hogs the top price of the sale being $82.50.

How Modern Women Lose Pounds of Fat Swiftly—Safely

At the Same Time Gain in Physical Vigor and Xanthophylls and Possess a Clear Skin and Vivacious Eyes That Sparkle With Glorious Health.

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses. Every morning take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast. Be sure and do this every morning for "It's the little daily dose that takes off the fat."—Don't miss a morning. The Kruschen habit means that every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system.

While taking Kruschen cut out pastry and fatty meats and go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar.

At the same time the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are tuned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's six health promoting salts are carried to every organ, gland, nerve and fibre of the body and this is followed by "that Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and charming figure with speed.

If you want to lose fat with speed get an 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts from Schmitz Bros. Co.—3 Stores: Voigt's Drug Store or any live drugist anywhere in America with the distinct understanding that you must be satisfied with results or money back.

FRATERNAL PROTECTION

WITH A 48-YEAR RECORD OF SUCCESS

In a little Iowa town, Modern Woodmen of America was organized in 1883. Its purpose was to broaden the social opportunities of farm, town and city, to promote fraternal activities in various communities and to provide life insurance protection for its members. So successfully has it done these things that Modern Woodmen of America now has more than thirteen thousand local camps in forty-six states and four Canadian provinces, has become the largest fraternal beneficiary society in the World, and has more than a billion dollars of life insurance protection in force.

Protection for every member of your family is provided by Modern Woodmen of America at the lowest cost consistent with safety. On equal terms, this organization insures men and women, from sixteen to sixty, for amounts ranging from $500 to $10,000, and in such a variety of certificate forms that you can select one to fit the average need. There is even a

One or more of the thirteen thousand Modern Woodmen Camps must be in your neighborhood. For more information as to benefits of membership and how you can protect your dependents, see the local camp clerk or deputy, or write to the Head Offices. Decide today to do this.

THE CRIME IN THE DUTCH GARDEN

Chapter 14
A CYNIC'S WILL

THE police superintendent's promised surprise did not develop when Major Greenham was called as the first witness after the noon recess. He told how he had approached the garden to call on Miss Querding and had learned of the tragedy. Spared the humiliation of revealing his unsuccessful proposal, he was merely asked to swear that he had seen no suspicious characters about and that he had no hand in the crime.

Leonard Duckworth, the next witness, testified that he had been with Evelyn in the sitting room from the time of his arrival until news of the tragedy came. He mentioned the figure seen crossing the garden and told of the arrival of the doctor and police. Admitting his engagement to Evelyn, Duckworth said that, though Miss Querding had threatened to disinherit Evelyn on her marriage, he had told her he could support his wife without help.

After Duckworth had formally sworn his innocence of the crime, the servants were questioned. Ben Acres said he had seen no one enter or leave the house or grounds. Ted Green, the chauffeur, again explained his work on the car and explained his absence from the garage to fetch the hammer. Again he told of the empty car he saw outside the grounds as he hurried for the doctor.

The maids, Janet Raynes and Hetty Smith, related their doings, the former causing some amusement by her admission of listening to the singing. Each swore complete innocence of the crime.

Mrs. Frater provoked laughter when she told of leaving her bed directly the doctor departed, but denied the coroner's assertion that she had disobeyed her mistress.

"Yes," insisted Burbeck. "You were told to remain in bed."

"No, sir. The mistress said stop in bed till the doctor sees you. And I did."

The next witness was the butcher's assistant, Alfred Collett. He showed on the plan the spot in the lane where he and Daphne Frater met. His appointment was for 9 o'clock, and, while she had kept him waiting a few minutes, he was home again at about 10.

"Did any one pass you in the line while you were there?"

"No, sir. I was always, not on foot. There was a motor car."

The car, he told the coroner, was going toward the golf links. It wasn't a big one, but he couldn't see who was driving, as the lights "came on sudden."

More questions were asked, but he could not add to his replies. It seemed probable that he had seen the car noted afterwards as empty by the chauffeur. Collett swore he had not been inside the gardens and certainly had not injured their owner.

Every one at Merrow Craig at the time of the tragedy had been called. Strirling, who had heard the testimony, had not been questioned, but if he had not been on the premises at the time it was useless to call him.

But this was not all. Mr. Charles Morgan was called, and a well built man took the stand. A lawyer, he practiced in Bradford, but had been away and had just got in touch with the police. He said that three weeks previously he had been sent for by his client, Miss Querding, who told him the lines on which she wished her will drawn.

"There were many charitable bequests, some gifts to servants and one substantial legacy," he said. "Subject to these, and they represented about one-third of the estate, everything was left in trust to be divided equally between her two nieces for their lives. After their death it all went to charities. There was, however, a curious and unusual condition."

"They were to adopt the name of Querding. If either of the nieces married she would immediately forfeit all interest under the will."

Every eye turned to the two girls whose fates and fortunes were thus made so prominent.

"Marriage would have operated the same as death. The money would have passed to the selected charities. I told Miss Querding that such a clause would not be legally effective."

"She told me to carry out her instructions, and I agreed under protest. Meanwhile I had obtained counsel's opinion which upheld mine. I told her again such a will would lead to litigation, left it with her, but begged her to reconsider."

"Can you say whether she executed the will?" the coroner inquired.

"No, I heard nothing more."

The coroner's next question was listened to intently.

"I that will was not executed would a previous will be effective or would there be an intestacy?"

"There was no previous will; so there would be an intestacy and the estate would be divided equally among the next of kin—in this case, I believe, a nephew and two nieces, and would pass absolutely not merely with life interests."

Again the eyes of the curious glanced at the two sisters. They might well hope that that strange will had never been completed!

"Have any steps been taken to see what Miss Querding did with the will?" asked the coroner.

"I went to Merrow Craig this morning," answered Morgan. "The police were with me. We searched through Miss Querding's papers, but we could not find it. I saw her place it in a certain drawer in her desk. It was not there."

"You think she may have destroyed it?"

"It would seem so, but it contained a list of bequests, carefully planned, and I should not have expected her to destroy that."

"You are suggesting that the will is lost—or has been removed?"

"I am only suggesting," said the solicitor, "a more complete search."

There were a few more questions and then, as Morgan was about to leave the box, the coroner spoke.

"What was that substantial legacy you mentioned?"

"A gift of 5000 pounds to a friend, Major Wilbert Greenham."

Every one now looked at the major, who tried to appear unconscious of the new interest he had caused. The coroner recalled Evelyn and Marjorie, who said they had not known their aunt was making a will. Evelyn remembered that Miss Querding was away on the day Morgan said he had left the will behind.

Coroner Burbeck in his summing up, explained that the jurors, if convinced the tragedy was due to an accident, had to report accordingly. On the other hand it was their duty to point to foul play if the evidence justified.

As the jury filed out, Jimmie went across to Richmond, who introduced him to Morgan. Jimmie asked the lawyer for an explanation of Miss Querding's desire that her nieces remain single.

"As a young woman she was engaged to be married," Morgan said. "The man, a fellow called Blake, bolted with her sister instead. Blake was a bad lot. He used his wife and finally deserted her and the three young children, and died in America. His wife died, and Miss Annabelle, to whom the father had left everything, adopted the daughters. I believe she helped the boy, but she sent him away. She had no use for men, and she wanted her nieces to help her make them pay for what she had suffered."

As Morgan concluded, Rescoe attracted the attention of his superior. He seemed bursting with eagerness.

"What is it?" asked Richmond, turning to him.

"I have just seen him—the man that night outside the house."

"Who do you mean?"

It is the stranger the constable saw, but his story in tomorrow's chapter doesn't get to the jury.

MORE NAVY PLANS

Washington—The United States needs more airplanes in its naval force, the second airship, ZRS-5, ought to be constructed, and a Pacific coast base for airship operation should be started soon, according to Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, Department of the Navy. The Navy should have 125 more than the 1,000 planes now included in the 5-year program, Admiral Moffett believes.

FRANCE VIEWING SIX-SIDED RACE FOR PRESIDENCY

Five Men Come Out into Open—"Apostle of Peace" in Background

Paris.—(AP)—Parliamentary lobbies are buzzing with talk about the coming presidential election, the twelfth in the history of this Third Republic of France.

The successor to President Gaston Doumergue will be chosen in May by a joint session at Versailles of the senate and the chamber of deputies. Consequently it is to members of the two houses of parliament that boosters of the various candidates are addressing their pleas.

There are five men openly in the field and another, Aristide Briand, France's "apostle of peace" in the near background.

Usually the president of the senate is considered as having strongest claim to the honor and hence Paul Doumer, incumbent of that post, is much discussed.

Politics to the Front But party politics has invaded the situation this year. Doumer is backed by the rightists and the moderate centrists. The left groups are rallying behind Fernand Bouisson, president of the chamber of deputies.

There is open advocacy also of three senators, Henri Cheron, Albert Lebrun and Albert Sarraut.

French presidents are chosen for a term of seven years, but only five of them have served out their full term. These were: Jules Grevy, 1879-1886; Emile Loubet, 1899-1906; Armand Fallieres, 1906-1913; Raymond Poincare, 1913-1920, and Gaston Doumergue, 1924-1931.

Death cut short two terms. Sadi Carnot was assassinated at Lyons in 1894 and Felix Faure expired suddenly in 1899. The other four—Marshal MacMahon, Casimir Perier, Paul Deschanel and Alexander Millerand—resigned for various reasons.

Rebel Against Limitations M. Perier became peevish because the constitution made him "a figure-head, without power or initiative, and he slammed the door of the presidential palace behind him in 1895.

He was not the only one to rebel against the passive role enforced by the constitution and custom. Poincare, in a recent book, spoke of "my seven years as prisoner at the Elysee." The retiring president, Gaston Doumergue, when offered the nomination for a second term, said with much feeling:

"Never again! No more for me! I am going back to Nimes. I own 10 acres there. I shall be boss of that much, at any rate."

RUDELY INTERRUPTED Ligonier, Pa.—An automobile is a poor place to sleep in, as a visiting motorist found out here recently. He fell asleep at the wheel as the car approached the monument erected here by the Western Pennsylvania Historical society. The car crashed into the monument and moved the two-ton object 12 feet off its foundation. The driver was unhurt.

FEW SACCHARINE SENTIMENTS FOR NEW VALENTINES

Washington.—(AP)—Valentines tipped with venom are flooding the market this year.

The old comic has come back, but in more sophisticated, cynical guise. The 1931 comic Valentine touches with broad satire current phases of life and human weaknesses.

The modern teacher gets hers, but she is no longer a sour-visaged "old maid" with ringlets, but a flapperish person who walks home from an auto ride.

The earnest suffragette is neatly nailed with this: "You boast of woman's suffrage. And what'll you do next fall. 'If your bridge meets on election day 'You'll never show up at all.'"

The druggist gets a sarcastic "bawling out" for his side-lines, and wonder is expressed if he carries any drugs at all. He is pictured surrounded by toy trains and sandwiches.

Women are among the chief buyers of the returned "comicos," dealers say, whether it is the lure of the bargain prices or the desire to get even with somebody, dealers find it hard to say.

At any rate, women, young and old, throng to the comic counters and grab with glee the highly-colored bits of paper. The old-fashioned lace valentines with their saccharine sentiments are left practically untouched on a nearby counter.

Explains New Method Of Preparing Water Bills

Since the new city water rates went into effect Jan. 1, numerous Appleton consumers have been seeking explanations about the system now employed in preparing water bills, according to Arthur Dimick, assistant secretary of the water commission.

People accustomed to receiving a one cent reduction for every 100 cubic feet of water used when they paid their bills before the tenth of the month, have not been able to understand the new "discount forfeit" clause on the back of water bills Mr. Dimick stated.

"The new system is more efficient and simpler than the old method," he explained. "All bills except those prepared for special readings or purposes are dated on the last day of the month prior to the month in which the bills are due and payable, and are rendered at the net amount, in which the 'discount forfeited' charge of 10 per cent is taken into consideration.

"This 'discount forfeited' charge of 10 per cent constitutes a discount from the gross amount, the deduction of which is allowed providing payment is made on or before the tenth day of the month following the date of the bill."

Mr. Dimick also pointed out that the discount will be allowed on all bills accompanied by a remittance that has been postmarked not later than the day of the business day on the tenth day of the month. He said that failure on the part of the consumer to make remittance within the time limit will constitute a forfeiture of the discount and the bill must be paid for the gross amount.

ROOSTER "WATCHDOG"

London.—Miss Thomas, of Balinger, Bucks, doesn't own a watch dog to protect her property, but she has something which is just as efficient. It is an Andalusian rooster, and he is ferocious enough to chase away any offenders. The rooster sleeps outside the door of the house every night, and allows only those he recognizes to approach. He sounds an alarm by crowing.

COMMITTEES DRAW COUNCIL REPORTS

One Group Considers Plans for Underground Passage on Lawe-st

The finance committee will meet at 4:30 Friday afternoon to consider bills to be presented at the meeting of the common council next week.

If all matters referred to committees at the last meeting of the common council are to be discussed before the council meeting Wednesday night, it will be necessary for the street and bridge, judiciary, police and license, and fire and water committees to meet.

Matters referred to the street and bridge committee are the claims of Joseph Bauls and Mrs. Ed Lemke, 303 W. Fourth-st., the preliminary plan for the underground passage at Lawe-st, and South River-st, and an invoice from the Langstedt Electric company. The claim of Jake Model for the rent of a building he was unable to use because of smoke from the Superior-st. dump went to the judiciary committee, the application for a Class A license from Edward Strutz, 295 W. College-ave, and the bids on the touring car for the police department to the police and license committee, and the request for a water main on Newberry-st from Telulah-st. to the city limits to the fire and water committee.

The city attorney was asked to prepare an ordinance to conform with the report made by the planning commission, and to investigate the Jake Model claim.

The planning commission has already held a meeting on the transfer of a part of Newberry addition in to the local business district, a matter referred to it at the last meeting of the council.
